Mouse Rides Thor Into Space

6,000-Mile Hop Success

Air Force Hopes Nose Cone Brought Animal Back Into Earth Atmosphere Alive

Cape Canaveral, Fla. (AP)—The Air Force shot a mouse into space Wednesday night and hoped to bring it back alive after the first intercontinental flight of a U. S. ballistic weapon.

Fifteen minutes after a mighty Thor-Able rocket blasted out of a great pool of exhaust fire into a starry night sky, the Air Force said the 2-stage vehicle appeared to perform "satisfactorily."

The mouse was in a secret, highly-advanced nose cone of the rocket, which was aimed for a target area 6,000 miles down the south Atlantic test range.

If the tiny rider survived the flight through the thin outer reaches of space and the red-hot plunge back into the earth's dense atmosphere, man will have taken another big step toward his own first venture toward the stars and planets.

Passenger

An attempt was to be made to recover the nose cone and its little passenger.

Thor-Able is composed of a standard Thor missile topped by a radically modified second stage of the Vanguard satellite rocket.

So far, U.S. rocket experts have been unable to break through the intercontinental barrier with a ballistic weapon.

Snail's Pace

The Snark, a jet-propelled craft, has traveled 6,000 miles but not through space. And it moves only 600 miles an hour—a snail's pace in comparison with the blazing speed of the ballistic missiles.

A nose cone launched into space last May 18 by the Army's Jupiter rocket survived a 9,000-mile-an-hour plunge back to earth and was recovered intact from the ocean. The flight, however, was over an intermediate range of only about 1,600 miles.

So accurate was the Jupiter shot that ships near the predetermined target area saw the nose cone hit the sea.

The Thor-Able jumped out of a spectacular pool of fire and was visible about 3 minutes as it raced across a starry Florida sky.

As Planned

The first stage appeared to burn out about 2 minutes and 40 seconds after the blastoff and the second stage seemed to ignite as planned.

A team of aero-medical specialists was standing by awaiting news of how the mouse—nicknamed "Mia Ii" (for "mouse in able")—fared during Wednesday night's 30-minute spin through space.

A mouse also was placed in the first Thor-Able, but died when the rocket fizzled April 23. The Air Force abandoned its search for the nose cone after telemetric contact was lost.

TRAGEDY ON N.Y. STREET

A policeman helps with an inhalator. The child was dead on arrival at a hospital.

Demos Plan Drive Opener

Lincoln Star Special

Newcastle, Neb. —Nebraska Democrats will open their 1958 campaign July 26 at Grand Island when the state central committee meets and party candidates name a campaign strategy committee.

The meeting was set back a week due to a conflict of dates, State Chairman Russell Hanson said. It had been scheduled for July 19.

Hanson said some committeemen wanted to attend the Oregon Trail Days celebration at Gering and the state convention of the American Legion at North Platte, both scheduled for the earlier weekend.

An advisory committee of 21 persons will be named at Grand Island by the party's top 7 candidates, the nominees for the Senate, Congress, governor and lieutenant governor.

Each will choose 3 members.

Hanson Meeting Here Is Canceled

Democratic State Chairman Russell Hanson will be unable to attend an unofficial gathering of some members of his party in Lincoln Thursday as had earlier been reported.

Hanson told The Star a conflict in dates and commitments made it impossible for him to attend the get-together.

Lancaster County Democratic Chairman A. Clifford Anderson said the county organization had planned no meeting for Thursday, the announcement having come from other than official party sources.

Hanson said he hoped to get to Lincoln soon.

JET PLANE CRASHES; 2 ESCAPE

. . . Both Critical

Omaha (AP) — Capt. John C. Brockway, 42, of Strategic Air Command headquarters, and Warrant Officer Richard L. Remey, 44, of Offutt Field, were critically burned Wednesday night when the jet trainer plane piloted by Capt. Brockway crashed and burned on takeoff in front of SAC headquarters.

Both are in critical condition at the Offutt Base hospital. Capt. Brockway is from Duluth, Minn., and lives at Bellevue. Remey is from Long Meadow, Mass., and lives at the air base.

The plane hit a fence 100 feet beyond the end of the runway, then went 2,000 feet onto the new golf course at the base and was completely destroyed by fire.

Man On Ledge 5 Days Saved

Lowered To Colorado Canyon Floor By Mountaineer Team

Antonito, Colo. (AP) — A courageous man trapped 5 days and nights without food on a narrow mountain ledge was lowered to safety Wednesday afternoon in a litter strung by skilled Army mountaineers.

Then John L. Sanders, 35, of Albuquerque, walked 3 miles to where a horse was provided. He rode another mile to a waiting ambulance. His rescue came a day after the body of his companion was brought out of the area.

"Thank God," Sanders murmured when he reached the floor of towering Conejos Canyon, 30 miles northwest of here. It was the first time since last Friday evening that he had been off the 3-by-4 foot shelf which had been his prison.

Greeted By Wife

Sanders, the father of 3 sons, was greeted by his wife at the ambulance. Mrs. Carolyn Sanders was shaking and in tears, in marked contrast to the comparative calm of her husband.

Sanders was taken to Alamosa Community Hospital where doctors said he appeared remarkably fit.

He was given his first food Tuesday afternoon when a volunteer, Don Bewley, 22, was lowered 500 feet from the top of the Windy Canyon wall to join Sanders on his perch. Bewley remained overnight with the trapped man and made his way to safety Wednesday, clambering up to the canyon rim on nylon ropes.

Sanders, manager of the Securities Acceptance Corp. in Albuquerque, fell from a trail atop the canyon last Friday while returning from a fishing trip with William E. Garver, 38 auditor for the University of New Mexico.

Garver's Body Found

Garver's body was found late Tuesday near the base of the canyon.

Hospital officials at Alamosa placed Sanders in a private room and would not allow him to talk with reporters. Outside the room, Mrs. Sanders, her poise regained, told reporters her husband was spurning doctors' efforts to give him sedatives.

"He's still nervous when he gets to thinking about it," she told the Associated Press, "but he says sleep is the last thing he wants. He told me, 'I hope they (the doctors) wait—I don't want to go to sleep.'"

Elective Education Post Petitions Fail

. . . Unofficial Tally Indicates

By Betty Person

The Nebraska School Improvement Association's petition drive to decide whether or not the state commissioner of education should be an elective post apparently has failed for lack of valid signatures, according to unofficial results announced Wednesday evening by the secretary of state's office.

Deputy Secretary of State Roland Luedtke said the office has checked "every signature submitted by the NSIA" and that it had found only 53,572 valid signatures compared to the required number of 56,794.

Luedtke said the results would have to be reported as "unofficial" Wednesday night due to a last-minute snarl in determining exactly how many signatures the Association had submitted.

According to the NSIA tally, it submitted 60,884 signatures believed to be valid, but records in the secretary of state's office show that county-by-county, there were only 58,661 signatures to be checked.

5,089 Disqualified

Luedtke said the office staff had disqualified, for technical reasons, 5,089 signatures out of the total 58,661 counted and he reiterated the office had counted every signature submitted.

The counting procedure of the NSIA petitions has been one of confusion since the petitions were filed minutes before last Thursday's 5 p.m. deadline.

The NSIA was not sure at that time now many signatures it had to submit, but decided it was roughly about 60,000.

NSIA representatives then agreed to come to the secretary of state's office Monday morning and tabulate petitions and then submit a total figure which was reported at 60,884.

Up 845

The secretary of state's office has since adjusted that basic figure upwards by 845 when it found more signatures in a given county than had been recorded by the NSIA.

But the running tally kept by the secretary of state's office as each county was checked produced a total that was some 2,000 under the NSIA figure.

Association representatives sad they probably would have a statement to make Thursday regarding the results when they are checked again by Luedtke.

Farmer Dies In Car Crash Near Norfolk

Norfolk, Neb. (AP)—A 60-year-old Norfolk farmer was killed Wednesday afternoon in a car crash 8 miles south of Norfolk on U.S. 81.

The State Patrol said the victim, Virgil Brewer, apparently had turned into the path of an oncoming car to go onto a county road.

Driver of the other car was Stanley Jensen, about 30, of York. Mrs. Jensen, 27, was seriously injured and was taken to a Norfolk hospital. Jensen and the couple's 2 children escaped with minor injuries.

Brewer was alone in his car.

The death was Nebraska's 147th traffic fatality of the year. A year ago there had been 130.

Homes Evacuated; Rain Near 4 Inches

. . . Creeks Rise As Curbs, Sewers Overflow

West Lincoln parents and their sleepy-eyed children were evacuated early Thursday from their flood-threatened homes as water from continuing deluges of rain forced them out of low-lying areas.

Police were ordered to sound their sirens continously early Thursday morning in the Belmont area as creeks throughout the city rose to flood stage. They employed loudspeakers at hard-hit areas to warn residents to evacuate immediately.

The Red Cross rushed cots, blankets and foods to victims gathering at the Center. Officials said they were ready to open new disaster centers if Belmont became unable to handle the distressed.

Meanwhile, Dead Man's Run at 56th and O overflowed.

The Lincoln Fire Department rushed to the stricken area as water poured over lawns and sidewalks, filling basements and lapping against homes.

More than 30 thoroughly soaked and newly homeless persons were herded to a hurriedly established disaster headquarters at the Belmont Community Center where they were housed for the night.

Flooding was reported in spotted areas all across Lincoln early Thursday morning following heavy rains of cloudburst proportion which dumped something near 4 inches of moisture on the city.

Wind-whipped sheets of rain drenched Lincoln late Wednesday night and early Thursday flooding basements, overflowing city streets and sewers and accumulating precipitation totals of over 4 inches at some points.

Extensive flooding was reported in Havelock and West Lincoln. Cars on 48th were reported completely underwater and water gushed into residential basements.

Traffic Stalls

Traffic in the area was reported stalled for blocks, unable to move in the flowing current. The Fire Department answered harried calls in the area as basements filled.

In southeast Lincoln, reports of more than 4 inches of moisture combined with strong gusty winds which whipped the area. Dark, menacing clouds sent residents to their basements.

Water roared down Antelope Creek early Thursday, rushing out of its banks at 40th and 48th and South and along 10th and B.

Knee-Deep

Water flowed knee-deep along 19th and U; basements all along Vine filled rapidly.

Antelope flowed 2 blocks wide out of its banks at 48th and Normal.

Antelope Park was completely inundated.

Along A, Antelope gushed near bankful.

City police were dispatched throughout the city, checking creeks at strategic points across Lincoln.

They were ordered to sound sirens if flood danger appeared imminent.

Salt Creek jumped 2.6 feet, the station at 22nd and Theresa reported. The creek lapped at its banks under Cornhusker Highway in the Belmont area.

Onto Sidewalks

Downtown, bucketfuls of rain sent pedestrians scrambling for doorways. Unable to hold the torrents of moisture, streets gushed onto city sidewalks.

Traffic was reported tied up for an hour on 10th in the vicinity of Y. Cars stalled west of the Air Base in high water, unable to continue.

Streets were impassable early Thursday at 6th and B.

In the southeast, some 1.45 inches fell in the space of 35 minutes.

Meanwhile Safety Patrolmen checked reports of a strange cloud 5 miles north of Lincoln.

At the Air Base, only .86 inch rainfall was reported accompanied by mild gusting winds of 18 m.p.h.

Atlas Missile Tower Fall Kills Worker

Cape Canaveral. Fla. (UPI) —A maintenance worker on the Air Force's Atlas missile tower hurtled 120 feet to his death Wednesday and another employe was seriously injured in trying to catch the victim.

Officials at nearby Patrick Air Force Base identified the dead man as Fred D. Adams, 33, of Eau Gallie, Fla.

C. L. Tripp, 26, of Titusville, Fla., was taken to Westhoff Hospital at Rockledge, Fla., with a serious arm injury. The Air Force said his arm apparently caught in an elevator cable as he tried to catch Adams.

Adams was an employe of Pan American Airways which maintains the Air Force missile test center. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Belle Adams, and 2 children, Dale, 5, and Karen, 3.

The Air Force said Adams was the first fatality at the test center since the facility was opened in 1950.

Engine Tested

Christchurch, New Zealand (UPI)—Engineers at the University of Canterbury successfully tested a 60-horsepower gasoline turbine engine that is expected to drive a car 150 miles per hour.

The engine, one-third the size of an ordinary American-made car engine, gets 15 miles to a gallon of aviation kerosene.

Lancaster Towns Get A Drenching

Lancaster County towns surrounding Lincoln got a thorough drenching late Wednesday but reported no damage from the short, heavy thunderstorms.

At Waverly, rainfall amounted to about ¾ of an inch but no wind damage was reported.

Firth firemen were called out to extinguish a fire in a wheat field at the Norman TeSelle farm about 1½ miles northeast of town. The lightening - caused blaze was spreading from the already-harvested field toward a neighboring barn and wheat field.

In the Sprague - Martell area, rainfall was light, and no wind was reported. A drenching rain in the Denton area was estimated to have amounted to an inch of precipitation in the short storm period.

Greenwood reported about .50 of an inch of rainfall, and Malcolm .75.

The southern part of the county missed the storms, with Hallam reporting only a trace of moisture.

Evacuees To Belmont Center

The Red Cross early Thursday morning opened Belmont Community Center for 25 to 30 soaked persons.

The center offered coffee and sandwiches and a place to sleep for evacuees.

Tom Gillaspie of the Red Cross, said the opening of the Community Center was necessary when Lynn Creek went out of its banks.

Gillaspie said Antelope Creek was flooding at 48th and South and 40th and South and Dead Man's Run looked "pretty bad" early Thursday morning.

He said more flooding south of Lincoln would possibly mean more facilities would have to be made available for evacuees.

2 Classified AF Recon Jets Crash

Tucumcari, N.M. (AP)—An Air Force high altitude reconnaissance plane crashed south of here Wednesday night — the second such crash of a Lockheed U2 in the area within 24 hours.

State police reported no survivors in the wreckage of the plane, which carried only the pilot.

Officers said they had been told by the military that the plane was "highly classified" and ordered not to touch the wreckage.

A Royal Air Force exchange pilot, Sqdn. Leader C. H. Walker, was killed Tuesday in the crash of his U2 35 miles southeast of Amarillo, Tex., which is 110 miles east of here.

The U2 was described as a single engine jet assigned to the Strategic Air Command for checking radioactivity from nuclear fallout and weather conditions up to 55,000 feet.

Cannon Air Force Base said the downed plane was assigned to the 4080th Strategic Reconnaissance Wing at Laughlin AFB, Del Rio, Tex.

Alternates

The low alternates were $223,223 for reinforced 36-inch concrete pipe or $228,590 for vitrified clay.

Acceptance of the bid from among 5 proposals ranging upwards to $243,165 will bring the projects completed or under construction to a $2,021,827 total.

The 2nd low bidder was Chambers Construction Co., Lincoln, with alternates of $225,887.50 and $229,202.55.

The engineering recommendations on the proposals received are expected to be made to the City Council at its regular Monday meeting.

Goldfine Blank On $89,035

Washington (AP)—Bernard Goldfine and his financial secretary told House investigators Wednesday they have no idea what happened to $89,035 in guaranteed bank checks bought by Goldfine companies in the early 1940s but never cashed.

They refused to answer detailed questions about another $232,000 worth of checks bought over the last few years but all redeposited at one time last June 25, after the special House subcommittee's investigation had turned to Goldfine.

Subcommittee members called all this "mysterious. . . beyond belief."

The millionaire Boston industrialist, gift-giving friend of presidential assistant Sherman Adams, flushed with fury and cried "blackmail" to questions about an indictment—dropped without prosecution—49 years ago.

Rep. Peter F. Mack Jr. (D-Ill) said papers in the committee files show that such an indictment, on a charge of concealing assets in a bankruptcy case, was brought against Goldfine in 1909 and abandoned the following year, presumably for lack of evidence. Goldfine was 18 at the time.

But Mack withdrew the whole matter when some members joined Goldfine and his lawyers in protesting.

In this third day as a subcommittee witness, Goldfine also denied anew that his favors for Adams, President Eisenhower's top aide, led to a soft settlement of a mislabeling case against a Goldfine textile mill.

And when it was suggested that "your company was emboldened by Mr. Adams' successful intervention in your behalf to commit even more flagrant violations," Goldfine snapped: "It is not true."

The Goldfine firms' acknowledged habit of converting cash into certified or bank treasurer's checks which sometimes went uncashed for years inspired some committee members to propose a look at income tax returns for the years in question.

The subcommittee said the total of the checks bought over the years and listed as uncashed at the start of its inquiry was about $777,000.

The group does not now have authority to examine federal income tax returns, but it could seek permission from Eisenhower to do so.

Not Avoided

Goldfine and his tart-tongued blonde secretary, Miss Mildred Paperman, both swore that none of the checks was used in any way to avoid tax liabilities—nor for payments to public officials.

Flemming OKd For Welfare Post

Washington (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday confirmed the nomination of Arthur S. Flemming to succeed Marion B. Folson as secretary of Health, Education and Welfare.

It also approved the nomination of John A. McCone of Los Angeles to be a member of the Atomic Energy Commission. President Eisenhower was expected to designate McCone to be AEC chairman to succeed Adm. Lewis L. Strauss who declined reappointment.

Both nominations were approved by voice vote without debate.

The 55-year-old Flemming, a former president of Ohio Wesleyan University, recently headed the Office of Defense Mobilization.

2 More Yanks Freed

Guantanamo, Cuba (AP)—Cuban rebels freed 2 more American civilians Wednesday but still held all 30 kidnaped U.S. sailors and Marines and a lone Canadian. expected to turn up here.

The U.S. Navy has become clearly impatient and indicated it might get tough with the rebels.

Adm. Jerauld Wright, commander of the Atlantic Fleet and U.S. Atlantic Command, announced at Norfolk, Va., he is flying here Thursday to confer with U.S. diplomats and Navy officials on negotiations for release of the men.

Wright plans to fly back to Norfolk in the afternoon and, if necessary by then, to confer with Washington top officials on Friday.

Rear Adm. R. B. Ellis, Commander of the Guantanamo naval base, told reporters wearily: "Mr. Wollam (U.S. consul negotiating with the rebels) advised me he fully expected 5 sailors to be released today. The delay is due purely to transportation troubles."

Kidnaped

The civilians released during the day and brought here by U.S. Navy helicopter are Albert M. Ross, 51, of Houston, Tex., and James D. Best, about 30, or New Orleans and Matthews, Ky. Both were kidnaped June 26 from the Moa Bay Mining Co. camp where they worked as engineers.

Nineteen civilians thus have been returned in the past week from captivity in the hands of Raul Castro, area commander and brother of Fidel Castro, rebel commander in chief.

The only civilian still reported in rebel hands is Richard Sargent, 56, of Toronto, who was kidnaped June 26 from the sugar mill where he worked.

U.S. Vice Consul Robert Weicha returned to the jungle by helicopter Wednesday to rejoin Consul Park Wollam in further negotiations for release of the servicemen.

Soviets Charge U.S. Evading Question Of Nuclear Blast Suspension

Moscow (AP) — The Soviet Union complained Wednesday night that the United States refuses to say whether the current Geneva conference of nuclear experts should deal with suspension of nuclear tests.

A Soviet note accused the U.S. government of evading "a definite reply whether it agreed that the meeting of experts should be devoted to solving the question of universal and instant suspension of nuclear weapon tests."

(The Geneva conference is being carried on within the scope agreed upon in advance by the Washington and Moscow governments: To determine what means there may be to expose any violations when and if a universal nuclear weapons ban is adopted).

Impossibility

In sharp language the Soviet note declared the United States still sought "to justify its refusal to end nuclear weapons tests by reference to the impossibility of effective control over their suspension even though it is now clear that such control is quite feasible."

The Russians threatened June 25 to scuttle the Geneva technical conference unless the United States declared that a universal ban on nuclear weapons test is needed. The Americans refused to make such a prior commitment and the Russians sent a delegation anyway.

The latest Soviet note was handed to U.S. Ambassador Llewellyn Thompson Jr. by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. It replied to a U.S. note of June 30.

The Russians called on the U.S. government to "make an unequivocal statement to the effect that the work of the experts be devoted to the solution of the principal task of the instant and universal suspension of nuclear weapons tests."

(In Washington, the State Department declined comment until it has received the new Soviet note. But officials made clear they were not impressed with the new Soviet accusation.)

Execution Of Others Reported

Belgrade, Yugoslavia (UPI) —Eastern European sources reported here Wednesday that at least 4 and perhaps 6 more leaders of the 1956 Hungarian revolution had been executed after secret trials in Budapest.

The sources said that one of these executed was Julia Rajk, widow of Laszlo Rajk, the former Hungarian foreign minister who was hanged as a traitor in 1949.

The reports of new executions came less than a month after the announcement that former Premier Imre Nagy, Maj. Gen. Pal Maleter and 2 other revolutionary leaders had been executed.

The sources said Wednesday that in addition to Mrs. Rajk, they were "certain" that the Communists had executed Sandor Haraszti, Gabor Tancos and György Fazekas—all important figures in the Hungarian uprising.

VFW To Ask Soldiers' Home Keep Funds

The Veterans of Foreign Wars announced Wednesday that it would sponsor a bill for consideration at the next legislative session which would provide that funds which are collected from residents at the State Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Grand Island be used for the home.

State VFW Adjutant Robert Lowe said that approximately $50,000 is collected annually from residents of the home who are able to pay. These funds are currently turned over to the State Board of Control and are used wherever the board "sees fit in any of the 18 state institutions," Lowe added.

Under the new proposal, Lowe said that this money would be "earmarked for a building program at the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home and would be used exclusively for new buildings at the home."

Improvements On Endicott Road Are Requested

Lincoln Star Special

Fairbury, Neb. — Jefferson County Commissioners have been asked to do something about providing a bridge and improved road between Endicott and the Clay Products Co. brickyard south of Endicott, but have tabled the matter.

Stanley Judd, plant manager, and attorney Robert Denney recommended that the county go ahead with a survey estimated to cost $1,200 to determine necessary work and costs on the bridge and road improvement.

The road improvement is needed to insure that workers can get to and from the plant and to ship the company's products out, it was stated. The firm employes about 40 workers and has an annual payroll of in the neighborhood of $200,000.

School Board Actions

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Before we give someone the wrong impression, it might be pointed out that support of one phase of an activity does not imply or mean support of the whole activity. Thus, while there are some things to be said in behalf of higher salaries for teachers, this does not mean that what many people believe are the problems of our educational system would all be solved by higher salaries.

There has been no hesitation here to discuss those aspects of the educational system with which we find fault. As a matter of fact, we will throw one in here later on. Consequently, those things which tend to reflect favorably upon education should be put forward with equal enthusiasm. Such is the case of teachers' salaries, raised $200 a year by recent action of the Board of Education. This raises the teachers in the Lincoln system to a whopping big starting salary of $3,700 a year.

Starting Pay Elaborate

Frankly, that is peanuts in this day and age. Hardly a job can be thought of that would not pay that much and thousands of jobs which carry much less responsibility and have far fewer qualifications pay a great deal more. After 15 years in the system, the Lincoln teacher can smile down at $5,650.

Of course, he will be smiling up at a great many people who in 15 years at their profession have gone far ahead of him in material gains. Now, you can argue all night over some aspects of teachers' salaries and get no further than you can in debating politics.

For this reason, we are ignoring such things as how many months a year the teacher works, where the money is to come from for salaries, how many married women who don't need a big salary are in the system, what a teacher can do in his or her spare time, working conditions, security, etc.

To our way of thinking, all these things don't mean a snap of the finger to the teacher who is attempting to support a family on what he can make in the Lincoln school system. For a man with a family, $3,700 is insufficient, any way you want to look at it, and $5,650 has just barely reached the break-even point.

In addition to this, there is the comparative position of Lincoln teachers. They are a minimum of $300 a year behind Omaha teachers and are further yet behind teachers in a great many parts of the country. Granted, there is a difference in the cost of living in one area and another but our opinion is to make a lot less of this than many people like to.

Taxes are high and the Lincoln School District is a shining example of the soaring cost of government. It still cannot be denied, however, that teachers here are poorly paid. If we want a good educational system, we are going to have to make the sacrifice needed to obtain good teachers.

A change of hats brings up the issue of the support the school system has been giving the city's summer playground program. The schools have served notice that they will discontinue after this year their annual payment of $8,000 toward this program. The act appears to be nothing more than a little spite work against criticism of the district for suing the city for $279,914 to recover past parking violation fines.

Repayment For Criticism

Just as that suit was a poor piece of public relations and a benefit to no one, so is this most recent action an example of poor judgment. No one is going to forget that the district tax load has been lightened by a shifting of its burden to the city. It will get no credit for cutting costs by merely letting someone else pick up the tab it had been paying.

Passport Controls

It could be a rather difficult task for Congress to act on the request of President Eisenhower to enact legislation giving the executive branch authority over issuance of passports. The President seeks a law which would upset the recent decision of the the U.S. Supreme Court to the effect that Communist sympathies are not basic for denial of a passport.

There is little doubt that the President has an important point but it is also not without some dangers. How many good American citizens have been ruined socially and politically by attacks upon them that had no foundation in fact? The number will never be known but certainly the claims of such abuse are many.

With the investigating that has now become such an integral part of Congress, there may be some dangers to putting such authority in the executive branch. Already, Congress is becoming more of a Justice Department—or an Injustice Department—than that agency is itself. It handles major crime investigations, improprieties, misconduct in office and just about any other infraction of the laws that are possible.

In Congress and with the executive, there seems to be little interest in protection of the innocent. The big objective is punishment or embarrassment of the guilty, regardless of what they are guilty of or how many guiltless are branded otherwise. A person of questionable loyalties to the United States could be denied a passport under authority sought by the President. Perhaps there are cases where this is needed for the protection of the country but who or what is going to protect the individual that will be falsely accused and branded as a traitor or a Communist sympathizer? The answer is that no one is going to protect them and therein lies the danger of the authority being sought.

Rates Are Going Up

Now is the time to catch up on all the delayed correspondence—to get letters off that should have been written months ago.

That is a good piece of advice anytime for those who like to win and keep friends. But it is especially timely as a July reminder because the new postal rates go into effect August 1, slightly more than three weeks hence.

First class mail will jump from 3 cents to 4 cents.

Air mail will go from 6 cents to 7 cents.

Postal cards and unsealed Christmas cards will go from 2 cents to 3 cents.

It will do no good to buy a supply of 3 cent stamps on the premise that the old rates will apply until they run out.

The new rates mean an increase mailing cost ranging from 16.5% to 33% but postage is still one of the best buys in the country—about the only thing left providing a reason for coining pennies. Transporting a letter, say from San Francisco to New York City, for 4 cents means getting a lot of mileage out of a microscopic outlay.

It is not to be expected that the price increase will materially affect the use of the mails, but if there are those who feel that it will pinch their budget there is always that thrifty alternative—write fewer letters and say more in each.

Finish The Job

President Eisenhower has put his signature to the bill granting statehood to Alaska —a fitting finishing touch to a question that has been before the country more than 20 years.

Satisfying as the presidential act may be, it does not close the statehood matter, as the President himself indicated when he accompanied the act of signing with an appeal to the country now to do likewise for the Territory of Hawaii. Despite its many vexations and in some respect lackluster term this Congress could distinguish itself if it completed the statehood assignment.

The United States annexed Hawaii 60 years ago under circumstances that our history perforce must pass over lightly. Influential Americans interested in the economic possibilities of the islands moved in, did all right by themselves, finally usurped the power of the native government and brought the islands under U.S. title. If such eagerness for acquisition as was demonstrated then continued as warm now Hawaii would have long since been a state. It is a commentary that this is the way the native Hawaiians would like it. It is the United States that is holding back.

Significantly 60 years ago the Territory of Hawaii had company. There were the Territories of Alaska, Oklahoma, New Mexico and Arizona. All but Hawaii have been granted statehood and with the possible exception of Alaska, Hawaii is more economically qualified than any of them were.

Aside from the plain justice and good sense in granting statehood to Hawaii there is another compelling inducement, namely the wholesome effect it would have upon a watching and questioning world. The United States has a reputation for running a closed corporation on the virtues of its particular brand of freedom and democracy, willing enough to allow the world to view it like a rich man leaving his window shade up so others can see his feast, but not sharing it.

WASHINGTON — The Harris committee's investigation of the so-called independent agencies has been a business of cops and robbers from the time it was born, culminating in the "imprudence" of its chief investigator, Baron Shacklette, in bugging the room of Goldfine's press relations man this week. My assistant, Jack Anderson, a good reporter, was present, as any good reporter is always present—if he can get there.

Reason for the cops-and-robbers game is twofold: 1. The Harris committee has been probing some of the agencies and personalities in Washington. They have gone to the summit.

2. Some of the committee members themselves have been dead opposed to the probe and have rowed among themselves.

Chairman Harris of Arkansas did not hire Bernard Schwartz as committee counsel until he had first phoned the office of Sherman Adams to see if the White House approved. This is highly unusual. Adams, a Republican, was due to be investigated by Harris, a Democrat. The legislative and executive branches of government, under our constitution, are supposed to check up on each other.

Yet Harris conferred with Adams' office, and Gerald Morgan later called New York University, on behalf of the White House, to see what kind of lawyer Schwartz was. They got word he had voted for Eisenhower, so gave Harris the White House O.K.

Last summer, after the Legislative Oversight Subcommittee had been functioning for almost six months with no results, Jack Anderson went to Miami and uncovered the first evidence regarding FCC Commissioner Richard Mack and his conflict of interest with Thurman Whiteside regarding Channel 10.

This was in August. The information was given to Counsel Schwartz and Chief investigator Shacklette. They did not "leak" the story to this column as some congressmen suspected. It was leaked to them.

After this column published the sensational charges against Mack on Jan. 17, 1958, plus other charges of gift-taking by independent agencies, Schwartz was hauled before his committee and cross-examined as to whether he had given the information to me or to Anderson. He was able to swear quite truthfully that he hadn't.

However, after the first revelations in this column, the New York Times also published the Schwartz memo regarding gift-taking and influence peddling. What happened was that a copy of his report was left in a bush near the capitol building for the New York Times. The Times came along and picked it up.

It's Not The Fact It's The Effect

WASHINGTON — The explosive growth of public relations as a profession, which has long been a matter of concern to serious reporters, has strikingly come to the fore in the Bernard Goldfine story.

For the first few days Goldfine's well-staged rehearsals of his statement to the Harris subcommittee reduced it to the status of a second-run movie house with a stale attraction. It is probable that many television viewers thought they were watching him face his inquisitors; what they actually saw was an artful presentation under the coaching, not even of his lawyers, but of experts in forming public opinion for propaganda purposes.

Few people are aware that Sherman Adams did precisely the same thing with his statement before the subcommittee. Adams utilized White House facilities and a select circle was present to observe and to advise on his dress rehearsal which the TV viewers actually saw.

Reporters conscious of their responsibilities are covering, where possible, both rehearsals and hearings and trying to make plain the distinction between the two. For a good reporter knows he must "see the whites of their eyes" and is entitled to take into account the demeanor of the witness.

It may conceivably be of interest to bar associations that this technique has been adopted in the present instance, not by lawyers for show business, but by presumed leaders of their profession in matters involving the integrity of the government itself. Roger Robb, Goldfine's chief counsel, was counsel for Chairman Lewis Strauss of the Atomic Energy Commission, in the ouster of Dr. Robert Oppenheimer; his associate counsel, Samuel Sears of Boston, is described as equally reputable.

Robb's association with the original unpaid volunteer to burnish up the Goldfine testimony, Tex McCrary, was somewhat vague. But now he is appearing in pictures with an investigator who investigates the subcommittee investigators and a paid public relations counsel who calls press conferences at midnight and has a professional model as a press receptionist.

She is a very pretty girl, too, and in a sense the reporters never had it so good The effect on some of them has been to drive them to cups of coffee in a perhaps losing effort to keep their sense of reality intact, though the supplies of food and stronger drink remain plentiful.

Television is barred from House hearings by fiat of Speaker Sam Rayburn. It may be that what is happening here is worse than any evils the speaker foresaw in admitting the magic lanterns into the sacred precincts of the House. Certainly Goldfine, having got his story before the public in terms satisfactory to experts, contentedly filibustered the Harris subcommittee at the start.

The press is involved in the general razzle-dazzle through the disclosure that a reporter hired the hotel room next to Goldfine and loaned it to the now-fired chief investigator for the subcommittee.

The chief responsibility for getting the inquiry back on the track rests with Chairman Harris. He is coldly angry, but anger will not be enough and his reaction in hiring a press agent for the subcommittee is hardly an encouraging sign.

Flag Crisis

Prospective statehood has brought joy to Alaska and to its numberless friends in the present 48 states, but the feeling is not shared by the flag makers and dealers. Their notably stable business has been thrown into an uproar. Their vexation is shared by Parker Brothers Inc., of Salem, Mass. The Brothers are the nation's big producer of games. They have an infinite number based on 48 states or carrying 48 stars and all of them shortly will be obsolete. Moreover, the jig saw puzzle department has an insoluble problem. One of its bread and butter items is a sawed up map of the United States made to temporarily confound all children and most adults. How is one going to attach Alaska to the mainland for ~~fun and~~ purposes?

MAN'S BEST FRIEND

Knock Once, Ask For Sandy

By HAL HASSELBALCH
Star Staff Writer

Sandy is another of those dogs that likes to fit in with the crowd and be one of the gang.

In this case, the crowd consists of the Robert C. Dudley family of 3821 Dunn. For instance, one of the chief pastimes of the Dudley children, Pam, 7 and Mike, 5, is watching television.

When they sit down with eyes glued to the screen, there is Sandy beside them, not sitting as dogs usually sit, braced by the forelegs; but sitting upright the same as people.

And Sandy does not do it as a stunt to be over in a matter of minutes. She sits that way program after program!

☆ ☆ ☆

Sandy has also learned, like people, that one can often accomplish indirectly what is impossible directly. She is forbidden to frequent the kitchen, but she easily gets around that by starting a ball or marble game.

She tosses the ball or marble into the air, chases it until she has it in her teeth or paws and tosses it again. This she does right up to the kitchen door.

Accidents will happen, and the toy goes bouncing into the "off limits" area. After that there is little left to do but go after it immediately.

Sandy does not make a habit of living outside the rules. On the whole she minds very well. "Come here instantly," brings her to the side of the speaker with gusto.

Told to go to bed or outside, she responds without argument.

Since she considers herself just another of the family, she becomes jealous when she sees one of the children getting affection she thinks she deserves. Her way of overcoming that situation is to worm her way between child and parent.

MIKE, SANDY and PAM DUDLEY
. . . the bee snapped back . . .

☆ ☆ ☆

As much as Sandy seems to have learned, she has not absorbed any lessons from one of her favorite pastimes. Conditions permitting, Sandy will chase bugs with more enthusiasm than she musters for anything else.

Not the crawling type of bugs, her game is the flying animal. Round and round the backyard Sandy jousts.

As one might expect, Sandy has snapped at a variety that had more than adequate means of fighting back. A bee sting put the damper on Sandy's bug-chasing for a while, but this summer she is back at her old sport, the Dudleys report.

☆ ☆ ☆

Of mixed breed (toy Manchester and cocker spaniel), tiny Sandy fits where a German shepherd did not. With limited space outdoors, the Dudleys found the big dog unhappy and often unmanageable.

But Sandy with her small size and good disposition was just the thing the family wanted when she was spotted in a pet shop.

After 1½ years she has a firm place in the household. She has learned her boundaries and has patience with the others in the family. When she wants to come in from outside, she simply knocks once and waits to be let in.

Once in she is not allowed on the furniture except for the back of one chair. On this spot she suns herself in the winter and keeps tabs on the family outdoors in the summer.

In the same way that she considers herself one of the family, the family considers Sandy a most important part of it.

Nixon's Help

Lincoln, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In a column recently published in The Lincoln Star, Doris Fleeson said in substance and in part:

"In California, Republicans are making a search of the records . . . to see if some of the new (Democratic) candidates cannot be subjected to the kind of attack Nixon leveled at Jerry Voorhees and Helen Gahagan Douglas . . . What will be interesting nationally will be Nixon's attitude when such an opportunity is offered. He has lately said here of his own such campaigns that 'I was very young then.'

"Nixon will be under heavy pressure to help Pat Hillings, his most intimate California associate and Republican nominee for attorney general . . . Among Californians, what Hillings does or fails to do will be read as a measure of Nixon's present vote appeal."

Has Nixon improved with age? Or is he—

Home To Roost

Hebron, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: In the presidential campaign six years ago, the paramount issue was that "terrible mess" in Washington — Secretary of State Dean Acheson's failure to restore peace in the world, Communists in the State Department, the fact that some under-secretary had been given a mink coat and a deep freeze — all condemned as an unpardonable sin from the Republicans' point of view. Mr. Eisenhower promised that if he were elected President, he and the Republican party would clean house and keep his administration as clean as a hound's tooth, and would not wait for an investigation but would rid his administration of all such scandals as soon as they became known to him.

But now the chickens have come home to roost, and scandals have come to light. His chief adviser, Sherman Adams, is on trial before a congressional investigating committee for accepting expensive gifts running into thousands of dollars, and the President has refused to do anything about it, for he "needs" Mr. Adams.

When Mr. Eisenhower took over the President's chair, this United States stood high among the countries of the world, and was respected by all except Russia. Today it is at outs with its former best friends and hated by the countries it has pledged to protect. It has been many years since this country's prestige was as low as it is today if we can believe what we read in the papers and hear over the radio. Let's hope for a change for the better before we are involved in another war. The policy of appeasement and backing up don't stop aggression.

Glass Houses

Brewster, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: During recent days I have noticed comments from Congressman A. L. Miller on the front pages of some of the daily papers charging his opponent, Don McGinley, of getting support or endorsement in his campaign for Congress from labor organizations.

I am not in a position to verify or dispute these charges, but I am familiar enough with Dr. Miller's voting record in Congress to state that he is in no position to point an accusing finger at the support or endorsement his opponent gets from any group or organization, however sinister it might be.

I am personally acquainted with Sen. McGinley, know something of his record during the last two sessions of the State Legislature, and I consider the voters of this Fourth Congressional District fortunate in having the opportunity of sending a brilliant young man like Sen. McGinley to represent them in Congress, a man who will be honorable enough not to sell his constituents down the river in favor of the special corporation interests.

The interests and welfare of the voters of our congressional district, especially the farmer and stock-grower, preclude all partisan politics, and until we forget that we are Republicans or Democrats and vote to send representatives to our State Legislature and the U.S. Congress who will represent our interests regardless of political affiliation, we cannot expect conditions to become better.

Helping Hand

Hastings, Neb.

To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Two million men and women living in the United States have become a forgotten people under the administration of Dwight D. Eisenhower. They compose some of the senior citizens of this country. They are the fathers and mothers who have had a hand in erecting the foundations upon which has been built the prosperity of this great nation.

Five years have now passed and gone since the Eisenhower administration came into power. In all that time he has not lifted his voice in behalf of them and neither have his cohorts.

At the present time, voices are being heard raising the cry that because of the continuing advancing costs of living, something should be done for the old folks to meet such costs. But who are these old folks? They are the sons and daughters of the older people who in their day had no chance to help build up their security in old age through social security payments. Instead they have had to rely on a strictly pauper dole basis which has been called "need" for their livelihood.

Will a great Democratic party not hear their cry and do something about the affront that has been shown these senior citizens by the Eisenhower administration? There are millions of other old folks barely existing on annuities of some kind to whom should be extended a helping hand.

Senate Committee Abruptly Ends Public Hearings On Defense Reshuffle

Washington (AP)—The Senate Armed Services Committee abruptly ended public hearings on defense reorganization and prepared to go behind closed doors to tackle the House-passed bill to overhaul the Pentagon.

The final witnesses on the controversial measure were 3 retired 4-star officers. Their conflicting views ranged from a let-well-enough-alone caution to a warning that if Congress doesn't act now it will have to take more drastic steps within 2 years.

After Adms. Arthur W. Radford and Robert B. Carney and Gen. Carl Spaatz testified, chairman Richard B. Russell (D-Ga) said the committee had canceled plans to select some civilian witnesses for later testimony.

Russell said the committee probably would start next week its closed door consideration of a House bill which would give the Secretary of Defense and the Joint Chiefs of Staff greater power. President Eisenhower has urged the Senate to remove restrictions the House wrote into the plan he suggested.

Opposite Views

The 2 admirals had entirely opposite views in their testimony.

Carney, chief of naval operations in 1953-55, said Eisenhower's request for broad powers to reorganize the Defense Department was unnecessary and unwise. He said the request goes "far beyond the requirements for sound military control and management" and sets the stage for many things Congress has opposed in the past.

Radford, also a former chief of naval operations and until last year chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, helped frame the Eisenhower proposals. He said Congress must grant the broad power or be forced to take even more drastic action.

Restrictions

Both Radford and Spaatz, the first Air Force chief of staff after the service became independent, urged that the restrictions the House wrote into the original Eisenhower plan be removed.

Spaatz said these would deny the Secretary of Defense adequate authority to cut down costly waste and duplication. Discussing inter-service rivalry, he said, "we apparently are preparing to destroy an enemy not once, but 3 or 4 times."

Radford said he had been disappointed in the co-operation between services, saying, "if you put the heat on them, you drive them apart. They all take refuge in the laws."

Tulsa Man Hurt In Car Collision Said Satisfactory

A Tulsa, Okla., man injured Wednesday morning in a 2-car accident at 63rd and Cornhusker was reported in satisfactory condition at a local hospital.

Police said Thomas Edmundson, 71, suffered a broken leg when the car he was driving was in collision with the rear of a car driven by Mrs. Sally L. Farnham, 32, of Omaha.

Two passengers in Mrs. Farnham's car, Mrs. Robert Sistek, 33, and Mrs. Thomas A. Bjorge, 37, both of Omaha, were taken to a local hospital but were released after examination.

HST Chides Adams Case

New York (UPI)—Former President Harry S. Truman said Wednesday "the government would be in a bad fix if they lose" Presidential assistant Sherman Adams.

"He's running it, you know," Truman said on his arrival here after a 5-week vacation in Europe with his wife and Judge and Mrs. Samuel I. Rosenman.

The former President, looking tan and healthy, also said that no new code of ethics was necessary as a result of the charges made concerning gifts by millionaire Bernard Goldfine to Adams.

"A person who is fundamentally honest doesn't need a code of ethics," Truman said. "The Ten Commandments and the sermon on the mount is all the ethical code you need. You can't serve 2 masters at once."

Truman defended Maj. Gen. Harry Vaughan, his former presidential aide who came under heavy attack in the deep freeze scandals.

"There was nothing crooked about General Vaughan," Truman said. "He was viciously abused. They were trying to get at the man in the White House. Vaughn was my military aide, that's all. He had nothing to do with running the government."

Heroic Pilot Rides Plane Down, Dies

Spangdahlem, Germany (AP)—A U.S. Air Force pilot was killed after he heroically prevented his jet plane from crashing into a German village, Beilingen, the Air Force said.

Two crew members of the RB66 reconnaissance plane also were killed. They tried to escape by ejection in parachutes. Names were withheld pending notification of kin.

The plane had trouble in approaching the runway of a U.S. base at Spangdahlem. It crashed into an open field.

Flames Destroy 7 Acres Wheat

Lincoln Star Special

Pickrell, Neb. — Fire destroyed about 7 acres of wheat in a 12 acre field and a pickup truck being used to haul grain to storage on the George Carstens farm. The farm is located about 5 miles southeast of Pickrell.

Pickrell volunteer firemen called to scene managed to save part of the wheat field a combine and tractor. The fire was believed to have been started by backfiring from the truck.

U.S.-Canada Council To Widen

RED CHINA EXPORTS A BIG TOPIC

. . . At Ottawa Talks

Ottawa (UPI) — President Eisenhower and Prime Minister John Diefenbaker agreed Wednesday to full consultation between their governments on exports to Red China by U.S.-owned subsidiaries in Canada.

The consultations would be on an individual case basis and each case would be decided on its merits, a U.S. spokesman said.

It was the first concrete agreement to be reached during Eisenhower's 3-day informal visit to Canada which started Tuesday.

It was announced 8 hours after the President had urged in a speech before Parliament that the 2 neighbor nations settle their economic differences on a friendly basis and concentrate on meeting the threat of Communist imperialism.

"Canadian Law Alone

Canadian Finance Minister Donald Fleming said that it was Canada's intention "that Canadian law, and Canadian law alone, is to prevail over persons or corporations carrying on business in Canada."

The American spokesman, White House press Secretary James C. Hagerty, wouldn't comment on Fleming's statement.

The agreement grew out of a 2-hour meeting of Secretary of State Dulles with four Canadian ministers, including Fleming and External Affairs Minister Sidney Smith.

Canada has been selling non-strategic goods to Red China, but the United States has a complete embargo on trade with China. Resentment resulted in Canada recently when a U.S. auto manufacturer refused to permit its Canadian subsidiary to respond to an inquiry from Red China about buying 1,000 cars.

Eisenhower and Diefenbaker also agreed that their countries would work closely together on control systems to safeguard against surprise attack, particularly across the Arctic zone.

The president's address before Parliament was the public highlight of a visit designed to patch up worsened relations with Canada.

He assured the Canadian Parliament in a warmly-received, 25-minute address in the lofty, oak-galleried House of Commons chambers that the United States did not take its northern neighbor for granted.

The President expressed confidence that through "mutual respect, understanding and with good will" on both sides acceptable soluitions could be found for any disagreements between the 2 nations.

He warned against letting Canadian-U.S. trade frictions overshadow the main problem of combatting Russia's mounting economic offensive.

PARACHUTES FROM BALLOON SPUR SEARCH

Lincoln Star Special

Wisner, Neb. — A farmer who sighted 2 parachutes in the sky about a mile west of Wisner touched off an extensive search Wednesday.

The search ended about an hour later when it was reported that the parachutes dropped from an unmanned weather balloon.

Officials from both Lincoln and Sioux City Air Force Bases, the State Safety Patrol and Thurston and Cuming County sheriff's offices joined in the search.

According to LAFB officers, the hunt ended when the Sioux City base reported that a weather balloon was in the Wisner area. The balloon automatically drops the instruments it carries when it reaches an altitude of about 90,000 feet.

Canada 17 Million Plus

Ottawa (AP) — Canada has passed the 17 million mark. The Bureau of Statistics reports the population on June 1 was 17,048,000 — a rise of 459,000 in one year.

Ex-Lincolnite To Negotiate Release Of Cuban Captives

A former Lincoln man and instructor at the University of Nebraska has been named a special representative of U.S. Ambassador Earl E. T. Smith to seek release of 30 U.S. servicemen kidnaped by Fidel Castro's Cuban rebels.

Dr. Gilmore

Dr. Eugene A. Gilmore Jr. acting deputy chief of missions at the U.S. Embassy in Havana, will negotiate for the release of the servicemen kidnaped last week.

Dr. Gilmore, son of the late Dr. E. A. Gilmore Sr., former president of the University of Iowa, has been a trouble-shooter at the Cuban post since last summer, according to his sister-in-law, Mrs. Earl S. Fullbrook of 2539 Rathbone Rd.

Dr. Gilmore, who taught economics at the University School of Business Administration from 1937-39, joined the State Department in 1941 and has held posts in Peru, India, Iran, Uraguay, Bolivia and Washington, D.C.

In the Cuban post, Dr. Gilmore acts as counselor of economic affairs and also heads the U.S. Point 4 program.

Mrs. Gilmore is the former Helen Downs of Lincoln. The couple still lists Lincoln as their legal residence.

MORE CRIME LEADERS FACE INDICTMENT

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. William P. Rogers Wednesday predicted several more indictments against big time hoodlums before the first of the year.

Rogers made the prediction in response to news conference questions about progress of the Justice Department's crime drive kicked off Apr. 10 against the nation's 100 top hoodlums.

"I think the program is moving along faster than I had anticipated," Rogers said.

Four Join Ten-Year Club

Four new members were initiated into the national Ten-Year Club for Vocational Agriculture Teachers at the annual meeting held in Lincoln. They were, left to right: Ruben Epp of Henderson; James Albracht of Hebron; L. D. Clements, agriculture education consultant, making the presentation; Rolland Essman of Scotia; and Duane Foote of Chappell. To be eligible for initiation in the organization, the instructor must have completed 10 years or more service in the field of agricultural education, and be actively engaged in the field at the time when he becomes eligible.

Outside Help For Fremont Possible

Fremont, Neb. (AP) — Fremont city and councilmen have discussed the possibility of calling in expert outside help to improve administration and practices in the Police Department.

The suggestion grew out of a council investigation of the failure to arrest a man in a rape case. The possibility of an increased Police Department budget also was discussed.

White House Denies Milt 'Mooched' Ride

. . . Returned From Fishing Trip

Washington (AP)—Dr. Milton Eisenhower, the President's brother, was accused in the Senate Wednesday of "mooching on the government for his personal vacation pleasure." The White House denied it.

At issue was the use of 3 military aircraft to return Dr. Eisenhower and his 19-year-old daughter Ruth Tuesday from a Wisconsin fishing trip. The Pentagon estimated the cost at about $1,400.

Mrs. Anne Wheaton, associate White House press secretary, said the planes were placed at Eisenhower's disposal for the convenience of the government and in order to bring the President's brother back to Washington in time for consultations before he sets out Saturday on a good-will tour of Central America.

The tour had been scheduled to start about July 15 but was advanced in date last Monday, at a time when Dr. Eisenhower was fishing in Wisconsin's Land O'Lakes region.

Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis) told the Senate the planes were not made available for any government purpose.

"The example of the President's brother mooching on the government for his personal vacation pleasure is not a good one," Proxmire said. He called it "a cavalier misuse of the taxpayers' funds."

Phillip Nash, a candidate for the Democratic nomination as lieutenant governor in Wisconsin, also protested the use of military planes for what he called the personal travel of President Eisenhower's relatives.

Dr. Eisenhower, president of Johns Hopkins University in Baltimore, has been assigned to visit Nicaragua, Guatemala, Costa Rica, Honduras, El Salvador and Panama as head of a U.S. study group. He will confer with Central American officials about economic development and other problems.

Gen. Henninger To Washington For Guard Cut Meet

Maj. Gen. Guy N. Henninger, Nebraska adjutant general, will go to Washington Monday to attend a special 2-day meeting of all adjutant generals called to discuss the Army's plan to cut National Guard strength.

Maj. Gen. Fred C. Tandy, Iowa adjutant general, has also said he will attend the meeting.

The 34th Division of Iowa and Nebraska is one of the divisions proposed for a cut in strength under the Army proposal announced this week in Washington.

Gen. Henninger said Wednesday he still has not received an outline of the compromise proposal and would make no guess as to what effect it will have on the Nebraska National Guard.

Stan Delaplane's POSTCARD

Have been receiving much mail lately on the state of the hot dog. This being National Hot Dog Month and the press agents doing their duty doggedly despite the heat in Chicago.

The Month is sponsored by makers of skins for skinless frankfurters — there's an odd job!

A Chicago firm is providing the mimeographed information:

"Jayne Mansfield was the first Hot Dog Queen (1956).

"Kathy Grant (now Mrs. Bing Crosby) was Queen in 1957.

In 1954 when they began keeping score, Americans ate 50.6 hot dogs each. (You wonder about that .4 left? That was the day I ordered two and couldn't finish. I wrapped it in the napkin. When nobody was looking, I hurled it under the grandstand.)

☆ ☆ ☆

The hot dog eating has steadily increased during the years. This year we estimate that each person will eat 62.4.

Hot dogs have been royally boosted by Queen Elizabeth. She served them to the American Bar Association at Buckingham Palace last summer.

Her papa, King George VI, ate a Coney Island redhot with Franklin D. Roosevelt. This event was engineered by Irving Hoffman, at that time propaganda chief for Coney Island's frankfurter industry.

Mr. Hoffman's letterheads to the press bore the frank statement:

"When a man bites a dog, that's news."

☆ ☆ ☆

We have a village hot dog stand. We get it on a stick (with free mustard dip) for 19 cents. For 30 cents, we get the deluxe edition—in a bun with onions, mustard and chopped pickle.

Matter of fact, I think the hot dog is one thing that has improved over the years. A little fatter and a little more tasty than I remember them in my doggy youth.

There is nothing in the literature that says where the name "hot dog" comes from. A comic strip, wasn't it? They were "redhots" when I was playing the roller coaster route. Or "weenies."

We are not up to our mid-year quota of 31.2. But expect to make a spurt in September-October when the football games are on.

☆ ☆ ☆

The hot dog people had better do something about the old buns, though, this year. I am mighty fed up on tasteless buns, old and cold.

We have had an odd hot dog or two at the village hot doggery.

And we had 4.8 at the Ice Follies. For a while I thought it was going to be 4.4. But my small boy regained his appetite after the intermission and bit it down to .8. One bite. Got a little mustard on the chin, that's all.

☆ ☆ ☆

The hot dog has 120 calories and is five inches long.

Last year we ate ten billion of them.

Nobody has worked out how much mustard. However, I claim that a hot dog requires two swipes with that little paint brush they put in the mustard pots. One lick is not enough.

It seems traditional to use chopped sweet pickle. But in my youth we had a choice of this or a long, thin slice of dill. I used to take chopped sweet. But now, if I make them at home, I use dill.

The hot dogs are a little fatter these days.

Cafe Owner Says Money Paid To Keep Workers Out Of Union Got Them In

Washington (AP) — A restaurateur testified Wednesday that money he paid to the Chicago Restaurant Assn. to keep his employes out of a union was actually used to get them into it.

George Marienthal, part owner of the London House and Mr. Kelly's restaurants, said Abe Teitelbaum made the deal but that he doesn't blame Teitelbaum.

Marienthal appeared before the Special Senate Rackets Committee, which is investigating infiltration of gangsters into Chicago restaurant unions and the restaurant business itself.

Marienthal related that he found a picket line at the London House one day in 1950 and sought help from Teitelbaum, then labor consultant for the Restaurant Association. He said he had previously started paying into what the association called its voluntary fund to finance special services from Teitelbaum on legal matters.

"I don't know what steps Mr. Teitelbaum took," Marienthal testified, "but the pickets were removed from our restaurant by the end of the day."

Voluntary Fund

Sometime later, he said, he discovered that Teitelbaum had arranged for the union to settle by recruiting 40 of the London House's 100 employes into the union. He said he understood the dues would be paid from the restaurant's contribution to the voluntary fund.

Then, he continued, the union protested that it was not getting its dues money from Teitelbaum. He said Teitelbaum was deep in tax troubles at the time, pleaded he was financially embarrassed, and arranged for Marienthal to make quarterly dues payments of $587 to the union. The money went to Locals No. 88 and 484 of the big Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union.

Marienthal said Teitelbaum promised to reimburse him but never did. When he became convinced that Teitelbaum wasn't going to pay, he said, he began deducting the cost of the dues from the paychecks of the employes involved.

'Ridiculous'

Chicago (UPI) — Police Capt. George R. Barnes said that testimony before the Senate Rackets Committee that he denied police protection in a labor dispute is "ridiculous."

At the same time, Gov. William G. Stratton ordered the firing of William H. Kerr, a state Public Welfare Department employe who took the Fifth Amendment 18 times in his appearance before the committee.

Barnes contradicted the testimony of Harold Schwimmer, operator of Barney's Market Club in Chicago. Schwimmer said Barnes told him he was "helpless" to prevent violence stemming from a union organizing drive.

Voluntary Contributions Aid LARC School Drive To Move NU Building

A boost by voluntary contributors has been given the Lancaster Assn. for Retarded Children in the organization's search for funds to open a shelter workshop for mentally retarded older children and adults.

A total of $550 has been received by LARC from individual contributors, according to the group's president, Ray Taylor.

Plans are being made for a special fund raising campaign, according to Taylor, to raise the money needed for the project.

LARC is seeking the funds to move the old University of Nebraska Student Health Center building to 84th and Adams where the LARC school is located.

The cost of moving the building has been set at $1,800 by H. L. Kapke & Son, house movers, Taylor said. The 7,500 sq. ft. wooden structure would be divided and moved in 2 sections.

Turned Down

A request by LARC for funds from the Lincoln Foundation was turned down Tuesday because the Foundation lacked money for construction work.

Taylor indicated the health center building was obtained from the University for $250 plus the cost of removing the building's foundation and other minor landscaping and sidewalk work.

Taylor said his group will apply for a moving permit next Monday from the City Council.

When completed, the shelter workshop will be the second in the state. One is already established at Omaha.

The purpose of the project, Taylor said, is to train children and adults so they can work to support themselves and make it unnecessary for them to enter state-supported institutions.

Escapee From Reformatory Gets Penitentiary Term

Larry Edward Dye of Council Bluffs, Ia., was sentenced Wednesday in Lancaster District Court to a one-year State Penitentiary term on an escape from custody charge.

Dye, 17, walked away from a Men's Reformatory work detail June 23 and was recaptured 3 days later in Omaha. Dye pleaded guilty to the charge before Judge Paul White, who ordered his term to run consecutively with the one he is now serving.

Retail Sales In State 10% Over Year Ago

. . . 8% Higher Than Previous Month

Nebraska retail sales are setting new records.

For the first time since the University of Nebraska's business reporting service was inaugurated in 1948, retail sales showed an increase over the previous year in every reporting city and county.

May sales were up 10.5% over a year ago and up 8.3% over the previous month. Only Chadron showed a decrease, 4.1%, over the previous month.

The July issue of Business in Nebraska, prepared by the University's department of business research, reported that construction activity also shows a 16% increase over a year ago.

However, manufacturing employment was down 2.3%, compared with a drop in the United States of 10%.

Farm equipment dealers in May reported a 31.1% increase, followed by variety stores, with a 13.2% climb.

Small Cities Fare Best

The smaller cities are faring better than the larger ones, according to the bulletin's unadjusted city indexes, which include bank debits, building activity, retail sales, electricity and gas consumed, water pumped, postal receipts, and newspaper advertising.

Decreases were reported only by Omaha, down 1.3; Grand Island, 2.2, and Hastings, 3.5.

Increases in ciy indexes were recorded by: Columbus, 16.6; McCook, 13.4; Falls City, 13.3; Fremont, 12.7; Alliance, 11.1; Nebraska City, 10.2; Chadron and Broken Bow, 10.0; Holdrege, 9.1; Kearney, 8.9; Beatrice, 6.1; Norfolk, 4.6; Scottsbluff, 4.2; North Platte, 2.6; and Lincoln, 0.5.

Anti-Freeze Low Bid By Salt Lake Firm

Sky-Way Products, Salt Lake City, Utah, has submitted the apparent low bid for sale to the state of 5,400 gallons of anti freeze, according to Tom Coffey, state purchasing agent.

The price was $1.40 per gallon, compared with the $1.43 per gallon which the state paid one year ago for the same amount, Coffey said.

Senate Approves Billion Dollar Public Works Measure

Washington (AP) — The Senate Wednesday passed a billion dollar appropriations bill to finance public works, chiefly water projects, in the coming year.

Already passed by the House, the bill now goes to a Senate - House conference committee to reconcile comparatively minor differences in the 2 versions.

As passed by the Senate on a voice vote the bill totals $1,159,915,835. This is approximately $82 million above the bill as it passed the House and about the same amount above President Eisenhower's budget recommendations.

The bulk of the money in the bill will go to Army Engineers and the Reclamation Bureau to plan and build flood control, navigation, beach erosion, power and irrigation projects.

Nebraska projects involved include:

Army Engineers—Missouri River, Kensler Bend, Neb., to Sioux City, Iowa, $1,000,000, the same amount as the House bill; Missouri River agricultural levees in Iowa, Kansas, Nebraska and Missouri, $2,500,000; Missouri River channel stabilization in the same states, Sioux City to Omaha $5,700,000, Omaha to Kansas City $3,300,000. All figures the same as those in the House bill.

Reclamation construction — Ainsworth unit $1,100,000; Bostwich division in Nebraska and Kansas, $1,790,000; Farwell unit $750,000, and Frenchman - Cambridge division, $3,800,000. The figures are the same as in the House bill, except for the Frenchman - Cambridge division which was $2,300,000.

Grade Schoolers Answer Their Own Questions

By Jerry Wright

Do you know what a mollusk is? Have you ever thought about how much air reaches a fish bowl? These are questions which 3rd and 4th graders at Bancroft School are answering and figuring out for themselves this summer.

And then you say that you don't know what the younger generation is comin gto! If you only stop and think, you will agree with Mrs. Mary Field Schwarz, 1957 Teacher of the Year from Independence, Mo., who says that children are thinking more than they used to. They are curious and eager to find out what the world is all about.

"Children are individuals; and therefore, they shouldn't be formed from the same mold," is the philosophy of Mrs. Schwarz, who is teaching at Bancroft as a visiting instructor this summer. A supporter of the unit method of teaching (integration into one unit of all subjects) Mrs. Schwarz chose as the unit for the summer session, "Our Friends Under The Sea."

Committees

The class is divided into committees, each child having selected the committee on which he wished to work. Each group chose its own officers within the committee by any method the members desired.

Each committee works on a particular phase of the sea subject. The pupils no longer have readers from which every child reads. In this classroom, the children are given the opportunity to find as many books as possible relative to the subject and read from those they choose. Having found out as much information as possible regarding something the child is particularly interested in, he reports to the class his findings. In this way he, as well as the rest of the students, benefits.

In music the youngsters have learned many sea songs and several sea chants. The results of the art class can be seen in the atmosphere of the room. The entire room is decorated in keeping with the unit. No . . . they aren't merely colored pictures of fish, but three - dimensional figures. They also took starfish, sand dollar, horsefish and many other fish skeletons, and placed them in clay, poured plaster paris over them with a finished product of both a cast and a mold.

What's happened to arithmetic? No, progressive education hasn't neglected it. But children of today aren't satisfied with the old multiplication tables or problems from a book. They enjoy making up their own problems.

For example, one of the pupils in Mrs. Schwarz's class became curious about the amount of air which reached the water in the fishbowl. He and several of the other youngsters finally figured out that by measuring the sides and marking the area off into squares they could figure it. One finally discovered that multiplying the length by the width would bring the same answer

"Children have to be inspired to be creative," Mrs. Schwarz says. She believes that with the right inspiration, a child's possibilities are unlimited.

Perhaps it isn't the younger generation about which we need to wonder, but the older generation. How are they going to keep pace with the direction of the younger generation?

Teacher Shows Sea Life

Mrs. Mary Field Schwarz, 1957 Teacher of The Year, shows her third and fourth graders at Bancroft School what the finished product of a starfish molded in clay will look like. Mrs. Schwarz was selected as Teacher of The Year in a nation-wide contest sponsored by the U.S. Office of Education and McCall's magazine, and is teaching at Bancroft School this summer. Her classes are used for observation purposes in the elementary education department at the University of Nebraska.

Mosquito Now Hero

Lindsay, Ont. (AP) — A mosquito, wherever he may buzz, is a hero to the Leonard family. Its buzzing awakened Mrs. A. J. Leonard, wife of a bricklayer, in time for her to discover a spreading fire, awaken her husband and 5 children and summon firemen who saved their home.

Americans Roughed Up . . .

Russ Civilians Mistreat Fliers

. . . AFTER PLANE FORCED DOWN

Washington (AP) — The Defense Department said Wednesday night 5 U.S. airmen who parachuted from their plane which was forced down in Russia 12 days ago were mistreated by civilians before they were taken into custody by local authorities.

A Defense Department spokesman said indications were that the men were "roughed up."

The department would not elaborate on its brief announcement, saying a report on the episode was being prepared by the Air Force in Wiesbaden, an American air base in West Germany.

The announcement came after the United States earlier in the day claimed inhumane attacks by Soviet jet fighters that forced the unarmed plane down.

The State Department, describing itself as shocked by the jet fighter incident, strongly hinted it would fire a formal protest to Moscow.

At the same time, the department renewed its demand that Russia intervene immediately to arrange release of 9 U. S. soldiers held by East German Communist authorities for the past 32 days.

The captives were aboard a helicopter which strayed across the East German frontier in a thunderstorm June 7.

Moscow has maintained it has no control over what East Germany does.

Early Ruling On Little Rock Is Promised

St. Louis (AP) — The Federal Court of Appeals acted Wednesday to assure an early ruling on whether the Little Rock, Ark., School Board must proceed in September with racial integration at Central High School.

Three judges were named by Chief Judge Archibald K. Gardner, 90, to hear an appeal from an order by District Judge Harry J. Lemley at Little Rock blocking integration there for 30 months.

They are Judges John B. Sanborn, 74, of St. Paul, Minn., and Martin D. Van Oosterhaut, 53, of Orange City, Iowa, Republicans, and Harvey M. Johnsen, 63, of Omaha, Neb., a Democrat.

They invited both sides — the Little Rock School Board and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People — to petition for an early hearing and to suggest a convenient date.

Cypriot Killed

Nocosia, Cyprus (AP) — A Greek Cypriot was shot dead and 3 others wounded in a gangland-style shooting in the Nicosia suburb of Kaimakli.

Several Cypriots were sipping coffee in front of a coffee shop. A car screeched to a stop. A gunman sprayed them with machine gun fire and drove off. It was all over in seconds.

Way Open For Peace Overtures

. . . From Rebels

Beirut, Lebanon (AP)—President Camille Chamoun has opened the way for peace overtures from Lebanon's rebels.

The opposition still is insisting publicly it will accept nothing but the pro-Western president's immediate resignation. But privately it has been indicated there have been gestures in the direction of some sort of cease-fire.

Chamoun's move was made in an interview. He said he "very definitely" intends to step down from the presidency of this blood-stained country when his 6-year term ends Sept. 23.

Wants To Visit U.S.

"I intend to take a trip abroad and visit the United States as early as possible after I become a private citizen," he said.

His statement could be important. It came at a time when the rebels are weakening palpably. The people are getting extremely tired of the loss of life and the incalculable damage being done their little country.

Saeb Salam, rebel chief in Beirut, said the statement did not change anything.

"We have no faith in Chamoun's promises, and we will continue to resist him until the day he leaves the palace," Salam said.

L.A. Is Choked By Worst Smog Attack Of Year

Los Angeles (AP) — Sweltering heat teamed with eye-blearing smog to make Wednesday the most miserable of the year in Los Angeles.

As temperatures headed into the 90s, choking billows of yellow smog materialized over the downtown area.

Visibility was cut drastically.

Millions in the Los Angeles basin found their eyes, throat and lungs irritated by the nauseous stuff.

It was the worst smog attack of the year. Skies have been relatively free of air pollution since backyard incinerators were banned last October.

It was also the first heat wave of summer.

Queen Is Better

London (AP) — Queen Elizabeth II had a better day Wednesday and was in less pain from an inflamed sinus, a palace aide said.

The 32-year-old queen cut short a tour of Scotland and came home to Buckingham Palace with a temperature of 100. She has cancelled all engagements for the rest of the week.

Her mother will take over as hostess at Thursday's big summer garden party at the palace.

State Nurse Grads Rank High In Exam

Graduates of Nebraska schools of nursing achieved the 8th highest spot among graduate nurses from 53 states and Canadian provinces taking professional nurse licensing examinations in 1957, Miss Helen C. Marsh, director of the Nebraska State Board of Nursing, announced Wednesday.

Nebraska has ranked among the top 10 states for the past several years on the National League for Nursing examinations, Miss Marsh said.

She noted that 9 of the state's 12 schools of professional nursing are fully accredited by the National League for Nursing Accreditation Service, and all 12 are state accredited.

Graduates of the Nebraska School of Practical Nursing also ranked considerably above the national average on the practical nurse licensing examinations in 1957, Miss Marsh reported.

The National League for Nursing report did not give a comparison by states, she reported, but did show the Nebraska examination average to be far above the national average.

Nebraska has two schools of practical nursing, one in Omaha and the other at Kearney.

Food Export Best Weapon Against Reds—Morrison

"The American capacity to produce and export food to a hungry world is our secret and most effective weapon against Communism," Democratic senatorial candidate Frank B. Morrison told the Unitarian Church men's club.

The Lincoln attorney pointed out that "no nation has ever become communistic which was well-fed."

Morrison said that most of our foreign aid "has been wasted for creating industrial markets for a few big American corporations when what we needed were expanded markets in Asia, Africa and South America."

Nebraska farm goods could be sold in these markets, he said, "so stimulating food production in Nebraska that millions of dollars worth of purchasing power would be created in Nebraska, providing American industry with new domestic markets."

Jersey Merchant Knows His Toy Guns

Jersey City, N. J. (AP)—Harry Kaplowitz is an expert when it comes to toy guns.

Kaplowitz is owner of a 5 and 10 cent store. He was standing at his cash register when he heard a voice: "This is a holdup. Hand over your money."

Glancing over his shoulder, he saw 2 men, one holding a gun. Kaplowitz drew a .38 caliber revolver from the cash register and turned to face the pair.

"I'll give you a bullet," he said. The men fled.

Later, Kaplowitz told police he wasn't afraid of the gun the men held on him.

"It was one of those plastic guns, just like I sell," he said.

Dr. Bedell Of U.S. Office Of Education To Speak Here

. . . Former NU Faculty Member

A former University of Nebraska professor who is serving as a specialist for higher education programs in the U.S. Office of Education, Dr. Ralph Bedell, will lecture next week at the University of Nebraska.

Dr. Bedell

Until recently, Dr. Bedell has been serving as secretary-general of the South Pacific Commission, an intergovernmental organization which advises ways to improve living conditions of approximately 3 millon people on certain South Pacific islands.

Dr. Bedell will be accompanied by his wife, Mrs. Stella Bedell, who is also scheduled to lecture. They were Lincoln residents from 1938 to 1950 when he was associate professor and professor of educational psychology and measurements at the University.

Dr. Bedell will be the guest speaker next Tuesday at a 6 p.m. combined dinner meeting of Pi Lambda Theta and Phi Delta Kappa in Parlors XYZ, Student Union. His subject will be "American Education and the Pacific Community."

Mrs. Bedell will be honored at a luncheon at noon Tuesday in Parlors XYZ, Student Union, given by the Faculty Wives, and a noon brunch is planned Sunday, July 13 for Dr. and Mrs. Bedell at the Cornhusker Hotel.

Following his departure from Lincoln Dr. Bedell was professor and chairman of the Department of Psychology and Education at the American University in Washington. Later he was appointed director of the program development and review branch of the Division of International Education of the U.S. Office of Education.

Dr. Bedell's work from 1955 to 1958 as secretary-general of the South Pacific Commission involved working with the governments of Australia, France, The Netherlands, New Zealand, the United Kingdom and the United States which set up the commission in 1946. The area covered by the Commission includes 17 island territories of these governments and the independent Kingdom of Tonga. The secretary-general is appointed by the Commission which consists of 2 commissioners from each participating government.

Odell Attorney Asks Dismissal Of Complaint

Thomas W. Stanosheck, Odell attorney, has requested the State Supreme Court to dismiss a complaint filed against him by the Nebraska State Bar Assn.

In the request, made in his answer to the complaint, Stanosheck said his actions which led to the complaint filing constituted no violation of the Bar Association's canons of professional ethics.

The association has asked the high court to take what action is "necessary, fitting and proper" against Stanosheck, who, according to the complaint, pleaded nolo contendere (no contest) Nov. 21, 1956, to a charge of issuing a no-fund check.

Stanosheck was convicted and sentenced to a term of 15 to 21 months in the Nebraska Men's Reformatory.

In his answer, Stanosheck further contended that his sentence was unwarranted.

Educator Urges: Record Growth, Development Of Our Children

Teachers need to conduct longitudinal studies of their pupils, Dr. Ernest Melby, former dean of education at New York University and at present distinguished professor of education at Michigan State University, said Wednesday.

Dr. Melby addressed the dinner meeting of the All-Teachers College Conference being held Wednesday and Thursday at the University of Nebraska.

Pointing to a growing need for research on what life is doing to children and what could be done differently, Dr. Melby said the only way to find out what kind of person an individual is, is to live with him.

Teachers are in this position, he said, and they must be sensitized to the need for these studies and equipped to make them.

"We need records of students' growth and development comparable to medical records of patients," he said.

He suggested for consideration several ways to accomplish this, including: establishment of continual records; keeping teachers with students more than one year, or the master-teacher idea in schools.

If the Russian educational challenge means anything, it means that the United States should develop its own idea of education all the more effectively than before, Dr. Melby said at an earlier meeting Wednesday.

Speaking at the opening session of the conference, he said that the Russians have made education the central point of their life and have become an "education-centered society."

They have elevated teaching to "the very highest status in their society," he said, and deliberately set out to spend enough wealth and energy to develop an educational program for all people.

'Adopting Ours'

"At a time when we talk of adopting the Russian ideas, the Russians are fast and furiously adopting ours," Dr. Melby said.

"Unfortunately," he continued, "we are arguing about the education we have had in the past when we should be talking about the education of the future." This education, he said, is "so far beyond the power and scope and creativeness of today that there is no comparison."

He noted that the United States cannot afford the waste of the past. At least one half of the smartest high school students are not getting to college, he said, and a large number of those who do, do not finish.

$39,518 Bids On Bethany Library High

. . . Estimate $32,000

A combination of low bids totaling $39,518 on the new Bethany Library building at 1810 No. Cotner exceeded the architect's estimate of $32,000.

Charles Dalrymple, city libraries director, said the architect's estimate would be revised and new bids asked.

Library officials said additional contributions totaling $1,500 to $2,000 would be sought to be matched with city funds.

Apparent low bidders were Carl J. Dietrich Construction Co., $27,800, general; Action Electric Co., $6,668, electrical, and Ray Martin Co., $5,050, mechanical.

Surrenders

Hartley Winteney, England (AP) — An escaped convict so dangerous that troops were called out to track him down, was caught on a bus. He surrendered without lifting a finger.

Frank Samuel Mitchell, 31, jailed as criminally insane, broke out of Broadmoor Prison Tuesday. He held an elderly couple in their home with an ax until they agreed to help him escape.

WEATHER AHEAD

Temperatures for the next 5 days will average 2 to 5 degrees below normal over Nebraska with no decided day to day changes. Normal afternoon highs range from the upper 80s to the middle 90s, and normal morning lows from the middle to upper 50s to the upper 60s. Rainfall will average .50 to .75 inch, locally more than 1 inch, occurring as scattered showers and thunderstorms mostly Wednesday through Saturday.

FUN IN THE MORNING NEWS

August Bride-Elect

MISS LOIS RIPA

Of interest to town and campus circles is the announcement made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. John Ripa of Wilber, of the engagement and approaching marriage of their daughter, Lois, to Joseph L. Simecek, son of Mrs. Laura Simecek and Lumir Simecek, both of Lincoln.

The wedding is planned for Sunday, Aug. 3.

Miss Ripa was graduated in June from the University of Nebraska where she is a member of Alpha Xi Delta sorority, and of Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music sorority.

Mr. Simecek is a junior at the University of Nebraska.

—there's fun news this morning—and it involves a variety of topics—We're happy to include guests—current and potential — a n d news of brides-elect always is exciting. But no chatter on guests would be complete without at least one courtesy—and that we have.

* * *

—today Miss Sissy Walker, Miss Jean Garlinghouse and Miss Martha Crocker will be luncheon hostesses at t h e home of Miss Garlinghouse when they pay courtesy to Miss Sharon Doty of Pasadena, Calif. Miss Doty and her mother, Mrs. Russell Doty, stopped off for a brief visit in Lincoln en route home from Swampscott, Mass., where they had been in attendance at the Pi Beta Phi national convention.

A small group of guests has been invited to the luncheon which will be followed by an informal afternoon.

* * *

—speaking of people going from the east to the west brings us to Mrs. Willard Yates of Carmel, Calif.. and Mrs. F. E. Roth who arrive back in the States today after a six weeks tour of Europe.

Mrs. Yates, we understand, is flying directly home from New York, and Mrs. Roth, we hear, also is flying directly home—to Lincoln.

* * *

—more east-to-west travelers who will be guests in Lincoln at late week are Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Grainger who will arrive on Saturday afternoon. Mr. a n d Mrs. G r a i n g e r will be en route to their home in Salinas, Calif., from N e w York City.

Mr. and Mrs. Grainger will be Saturday-to-Wednesday guests of Mrs. Grainger's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. White, who have had the two Grainger sons, Bill and John, as their guests for the past 10 days.

* * *

—arriving in L i n c o l n on Wednesday afternoon w e r e Dr. and Mrs. Robert Burton (Judy Flansburg) who are the guests of Mrs. Burton's parents, Dr. and Mrs H. E. Flansburg.

Dr. Burton has just recently dropped one title—t h a t of a navy lieutenant—and resumed his civilian status. During his service with the navy Dr. Burton spent a year in Japan after which he was stationed at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Waukegan, where he and Mrs. Burton have been residing.

* * *

—now we have a combination of guest and homecomers—Mr. and Mrs. Joel Markell have just returned from New York City where they spent a week visiting members of their family. They were accompanied to L i n c o l n by Mr. Markell's sister, Miss Gail Markell of Miami Beach, Fla., who will spend a month with her brother and sister-in-law.

* * *

—bridal news this morning concerns Miss Peggy Mathers whose marriage to Bob Berguin of Sioux Falls, S.D., will take place on Saturday evening, Aug. 2.

Honoring Miss Peggy Mathers on Thursday will be Mrs. Earl R. Wilson, Mrs. Fred Maloney and Mrs. Ward Simpson who will be co-hostesses at a morning coffee at the home of Mrs. Willson. Guests have been invited for 11 o'clock and a one-gift shower will be presented to the bride-elect.

Out of town guests at the party will include Mrs. Kenneth Wherry, Mrs. Ervin Colwell, both of Pawnee City; and Mrs. Sam Mastos of Omaha.

Miss Mathers, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. S. Mathers, has announced that the ceremony will be solemnized at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the First Methodist Church.

Dear Abby . . .

Switch 'Channels'!

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Ever heard of a new breed that j u s t sprung up? They're called HUSBAND SITTERS. Now don't get me wrong, Abby, it's my own husband I'm sitting with and it used to be a pleasure, but not since television. Every night he comes from work, gets into s o m e t h i n g comfortable, plops himself down in t h e easy chair and starts watching TV. He won't take me out to dinner or a movie or even for a ride any more. HE gets out during the working day and sees people but I'm stuck in the house doing housework and at t h e end of the day I'd like to see something besides these four walls. But how do I get him out of the chair and away from the TV set?

MARY DOE

DEAR MARY: Your problem is older than television. It's as old as people. Give your h u s b a n d something more interesting to listen to and something better to look at and he'll re-channel his interest.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: I would appreciate it very much if you could help me with my problem. I am 45 years old and never married. I intend to marry this man in the near future. Now my problem is that he wants me to dress like a bride when we marry. That is, in a gown and veil. I feel at my age and with my gray hair it would look silly. I thought I would wear a cocktail dress with a little flowered hat and a short veil around it. What do you suggest? RUTH

DEAR RUTH: You'd be amazed how beautiful every bride is in a gown and veil. Gray hair and all! Try a few on while shopping and decide for yourself. G o o d luck!

* * *

DEAR ABBY: We have a son who looks like me but takes after my wife's side of the family. He's 23 and acts like ten. He was driving when his license was s u spended and he had a few drinks. It was just his luck that he sideswiped a squad car going 70 miles an hour (him, not the squad car.) He called from jail and I let him sit there all night. My wife cried and carried on like he was waiting to be electrocuted, but I said the lesson wouldn't hurt him. Now she blames me because the kid has a "record." I say it was good for h i m. Who's right? DAD

DEAR DAD: You're right! Parents who pull their kids' chestnuts out of the fire for them do the kids no favor. At 23, your son is an adult and should either obey the law or take his medicine.

* * *

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are friendly with another young couple. They act so lovey-dovey but we happen to know that he steps out on her all the time. They have three of the nicest children you'd ever want to meet. The whole town is talking. Why is the poor wife always the last to know? As a good friend, don't you think I ought to tell her?

TRUE FRIEND

DEAR TRUE: As a true friend, you ought to forget it. Don't kid yourself. The "poor wife" isn't always the last to know. Sometimes she's the FIRST to know—but the last to admit it.

If you have a problem, write to Abigail Van Buren in care of this paper. She will be glad to answer your letter. For a personal reply, please enclose a stamped self-addressed envelope.

SUBURBIA

PARK VALLEY HEIGHTS

Heard that the Jack Herberts and Bob Goulds recently took a fishing trip. The Medicine Creek Dam near Cambridge was the site chosen by the couple for their fourday excursion.

And during their parents' absence the younger generation in the Herbert family—Pam and Vicki—were guests of their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Kroening at Lawrence.

Mrs. Jack Speck was hostess at her home last Friday when she complimented her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Kehm of Grand Island, at a buffet dinner in celebration of their golden wedding anniversary.

EASTBOROUGH

An item of particular interest to the suburb this morning is the announcement of a member of the bassinet brigade. The little girl, who is the third Sigma Kappa legacy in her family, is Miss Jennifer Jean Longman and she was born at Bryan Memorial Hospital on Wednesday, July 2. Jennifer's proud parents are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Longman and her two sisters are Judy and Jackie.

Mrs. John C. Shepard is the maternal grandmother and her paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Longman.

Speaking of the Longman family brings to mind the former University of Nebraska friend of Mrs. Longman who will be a guest at their home this week during her stay with relatives in town. The visitor, Mrs. Keith Fitch, who hails from Syracuse, N.Y., will be remembered as the f o r m e r Marilyn Harms.

One of the n u m e r o u s bridge clubs in the suburb met on Tuesday evening — so we hear — when the hostess was Mrs. Jack Robson who entertained at an informal dessert during the card party. Included among the group were the regular members, Mrs. Robert Hartsock, Mrs. Robert Longman, Mrs. Harry Rust, Mrs. Joseph Ritter, Mrs. Merle Hahn, Mrs. Ed Marty and Mrs. Robert Bridges, and three guests who were Mrs. Gene Eno, Mrs. James Grady and Mrs. Roger Kruse.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Robson, with their daughters, Deborah and Diane, will be trekking to Gordon this week end to visit Mr. Robson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Robson. We can be quite safe in saying that Mr. and Mrs. Robson will have an especially good time on Saturday when they attend a high school reunion party with a number of Mr. Robson's former classmates and their wives. The event will be a dinner at the Sheridan Hotel to be followed by an evening of dancing at the Legion Club.

And we understand that the Robsons motored to David City last week to celebrate the 4th of July holiday with Mrs. Robson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Baker.

Mr. and Mrs. R o b e r t Harrington and their daughters, Patricia, Peggy, Holly and Judy, were host and hostesses to out-of-town guests the past week end who were Mr. and Mrs. Dan Conway and their three children, Denise, Mike and Kathleen. The Conway family motored from Lexington for their brief visit in the suburb.

Heard that Mr. and Mrs. Alex Bishop and their daughter, Margo, are in Eastborough at the moment. The Bishops, who hail f r o m Chesterton, Ind., are visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Boone and their daughter, Pamela.

A family reunion has been in evidence the last few weeks at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ulrich on Eastborough Lane where Mrs. Ulrich's brothers and sisters gathered to honor their father, Anton Oltman of Beatrice, on his approaching 80th birthday anniversary.

Coming from out of the state were Mrs. Ulrich's sister, Mrs. Tony Nocita and her children, Nina Marie, Tony and Steve, of Daly City, Calif.; and her brothers, D. Paul Oltman, Mrs. Oltman, Mary, Patty and Paul, Jr., of Berwyn, Ill., and Lt. Albert D. Oltman of Bueno Vista, Calif.

Highlighting the visit was the family dinner held at the home of Mrs. Ulrich's brother, Ray C. Oltman at Hallam where all six children were together for the first time in 20 years. Completing the family group were Mr. and Mrs. Ray Oltman and children, Cindy and Sheri, Hallam; and from Lincoln, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Ulrich, Lois Kay and Fred, Mr. and Mrs. Don E. Heckman and Irwin, and Mrs. Janet Bonner and Judy.

Full House Hears Casey 'Explain' Baseball To Senators

Washington (UPI) — The incomparable Casey Stengel, the sideways - talking guiding genius of the New York Yankees, Wednesday gave a fascinated Senate committee a brilliant but somewhat disjointed defense of organized baseball.

"I wouldn't be in it 48 years if it wasn't all right," he assured the lawmakers. The sage of Glendale and the Bronx managed to get his views across to the Senate Anti-Monopoly Subcommittee without resorting to the use of an interpreter.

But the cagy Casey adopted a strictly hands-off policy on a House-approved bill to exempt baseball and other professional sports from certain aspects of the anti-trust laws.

"I didn't ask for the legislation," said Casey defensively after expounding for more than an hour on the excellence of his American League - leading Yankees, the comebacks of some Yankees castoffs, the thrill of Tuesday's All-Star game (Casey's American Leaguer's won, 4-3) and the integrity of baseball in general.

But the legislation received a ringing endorsement from such anti-trust "experts" as Mickey Mantle of the Yankees, Ted Williams of the Boston Red Sox, and Stan (The Man) Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals.

They said they felt the bill was necessary to enable organized baseball to continue to operate as it has. They stoutly defended the controversial reserve clause, which binds a player to an individual club until he is released or traded.

Pitcher Robin Roberts of the Philadelphia Phillies, the National League player representative, also urged the subcommittee to approve the bill. He explained that the ball players wanted what the owners wanted in this instance.

"If they want it so bad, it must be good," Roberts said. He conceded that the 16 player representatives originally came out in favor of a more restrictive bill under the mistaken impression that the measure was backed by the owners. He said the players later were set straight on that point.

The muscular, switch-hitting Mantle proved to be quite a diplomat.

"My views are just about the same as Casey's," he told the subcommittee, provoking a laugh from the standing room-only audience of over 300 who crowded the marble pillared Senate caucus room in an effort to get a glimpse of some of baseball's greats.

The hearing also featured the disclosure of a newly-adopted resolution by the directors of the Washington Senators forbidding any club officer from negotiating or even discussing publicly the transfer of the franchise to some other city.

Despite the statement, Kefauver announced that Calvin Griffith would be called to testify before the subcommittee at the request of Sen. William Langer (R-ND), a subcommittee member.

Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo) also served notice that the bill would not have smooth sailing even though it does have 45 co-sponsors. Despite court rulings to the contrary, he said, major league baseball is a "gigantic, commercial enterprise."

Aside from these serious moments, the hearing-room was kept in a constant turmoil by the double-talk of Stengel and the line of youngsters who pressed forward to obtain the autographs of the sluggers.

Kefauver himself added to the general confusion by dismissing Mantle with a studious "Thank you, Mr. Stengel."

Tribe Shells Yanks

19-Hit Barrage Gains 12-2 Win

New York (AP)—After leaving 9 runners stranded in the 1st 7 innings, the Cleveland Indians opened the floodgates in the 8th and scored 7 runs—their biggest single inning of the season—to crush the New York Yankees 12-2 Wednesday night.

The rampaging Indians collected 19 hits, the highest total an opponent has collected against the Yanks this year. Whitey Ford was the victim of most of the Tribe's blasting. He was charged with the loss, his 4th against 10 victories.

Until the fateful 8th, Ford and Cal McLish engaged in a dandy little pitching duel, with the big Indian far the steadier.

McLish, who was lifted for a pinch hitter in the big inning—a wise move by Manager Joe Gordon as things turned out—gave up only 5 hits in his tenure on the mound. The Yanks scored their only earned run in the 2nd on a booming triple to right center by Bill Skowron, and a fly by Tony Kubek. Don Mossi gave up an unearned tally in the 8th.

Dodgers Belt Braves Again

Los Angeles (AP) — Last-place Los Angeles continued to cast a curious spell over 1st place Milwaukee Wednesday night, belting the Braves 10-3 as stout Steve Bilko homered and drove in 4 runs.

A crowd of 32,337 watched Stan Williams, a towering young rookie righthander, set the Braves down with 4 hits.

It was his 4th victory in 7 decisions.

This was the 8th time the Dodgers beat the Braves in 10 meetings this year.

Bilko, one of the most popular baseball players in Southern California history when he was hitting homers for the old Los Angeles Angels of the Pacific Coast League, got the Dodgers an early lead by cracking a 3-run homer in the 1st inning.

Stu, New Wife Visit Lincoln

Dick Stuart introduced his wife of a month to Lincoln in a brief visit here to chat with former Western League teammates. Stu, who became a baseball "great" when he hit 66 home runs for Lincoln in 1956, was enroute to Chicago where he will join the Pittsburgh Pirates as a first baseman and pinchhitter. (Star Photo)

With Al Beebe

Star Sports Staff Writer

When the powers that be select a successor to Don Jewell as Pershing Municipal Auditorium manager, we hope they find a man with a sports background, one interested in continuing Jewell's program of top sports attraction at the auditorium.

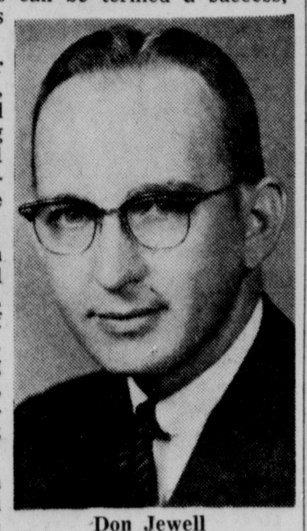
Jewell is leaving this fall to become manager of the Portland, Ore., Exposition Center.

During his 2 years here, Lincoln has been host to such city "firsts" as Jack Kramer's professional tennis tour, the NBA pro basketball All-Star game, an NIBL basketball game, ice hockey, and the No. 1 unit of the Harlem Globetrotters.

On a local scale, Jewell has been instrumental in forming the Lincoln Amateur Hockey Assn., several city skating clubs, and in bringing the Air Force Hockey Tournament here.

Not all of these ventures can be termed a success, but the greatest difficulty is always in making the start.

Much of the credit for having top attractions here, of course, must be credited simply to the fact of having the auditorium. But Jewell must still be lauded for making sure the facilities were put to good use.



Don Jewell

Jewell, a man with a background in sports as well as in managing auditoriums, has done an excellent job of presenting a varied program. In addition to the sporting events, conventions, dances, stage shows and other expositions have been presented at Pershing in its 2 years.

A varied program is a requirement of a municipal operation, as opposed to the auditorium owned by an independent group. Facilities must be available to all operations worthy of the city, whereas an independent might find one attraction which goes well and stick with it.

With Jewell at the helm, the auditorium has done much to aid Lincoln toward the status of being a good sports city. Despite the presence of the University of Nebraska and its top-flight collegiate athletics, and of the Lincoln Chiefs, the city could make no such claim 2 years ago.

The presence of Class A touring attractions, such as NBA basketball, pro tennis, the Globetrotters, etc, is necessary to a good sports city. The addition of hockey has helped to round out the program offered Lincolnites, another prerequisite.

Lincoln still lags in other departments necessary to be a prime sports city, such as number of tennis courts, public golf courses, and other public facilities. But great strides have been made.

Jewell's work at the auditorium will continue to be felt after his departure. For instance, among the events he has scheduled for this winter is a Nebraska College Conference basketball tournament Dec. 1-2-3.

Jewell's successor will have a good start. It will be up to him to carry on successfully.

VALDES TKO'S FOE IN 9TH

Spokane (AP) — Cuba's heavy hitting Nino Valdes off to a plodding start, suddenly caught Harold Carter with a wicked right hand and then scored a technical knockout in 1:40 of the 9th round.

Valdes, a light underdog, dropped Carter with a right-left combination early in the round for an 8 count and then sent him sprawling flat on his face seconds later.

Referee Joe August didn't bother to count. Carter, rated the No. five contender for Floyd Patterson's heavyweight title by the National Boxing Assn., rolled over on his back and was clearly out for almost a minute.

Valdes, the veteran from Havana, Cuba, scaled 216.

Jackson Spins 5-Hit Victory

By Don Bryant

Al knew from experience to fear the worst;
But there were no errors—just a cloudburst.

At exactly 10 p.m., Wednesday night Sherman Field was besieged by a cloudburst.

But the Rain Gods had been kind. Just 4 minutes earlier, the Lincoln Chiefs had registered the final out against the Topeka Hawks.

Hero of this night of water was Little Alvin Jackson, the Chiefs' hard-throwing left-hander, who posted a 5-hit shutout, 3-0 over the high-flying Hawks.

It was Lincoln's 3rd win in a row and the 1st time the Chiefs had turned that trick since May 24-24-26. The victory also snapped a 4-game Topeka victory streak and tightened Lincoln's hold on 3rd place.

Topeka is a much-improved club from the slipshod collection that appeared here at the start of the season—the Hawks have won 9 of their last 10 games—but Jackson was the master Wednesday night.

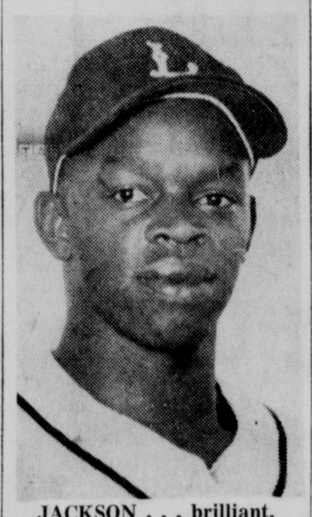
It was a damp affair—showers fell in the 5th, 6th, 7th and 8th and the field was muddy from previous rain—but play on both sides was sparkling. Nary an error was registered and both clubs' pitching was A-1.

Only 1 Hawk got as far as 2nd base against Jackson and he was cut down trying to stretch the hit into a triple. The other 4 hits were well scattered and the Hawks never threatened.

Lincoln found the Topeka pitching almost as tough. The Chiefs got only 6 hits themselves, but 3 of them produced runs.

So tight was the duel and so threatening the weather that Topeka starter Hal DeMars was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the 6th inning—after holding the Chiefs to 3 hits and a single run.

But it looked—with rain coming down and lightening whipping around the park



JACKSON . . . brilliant.

in sizzling fashion—like the game might end at any moment and Topeka needed a run. Tom Graham took over for DeMars and was nicked for a pair of runs although he allowed only 3 hits. Elongated Richie Jack finished up and blanked the Chiefs in the 8th.

Lincoln used a pair of walks, a fielder's choice and Stan Malec's Texas League single to move out, 1-0, in the 4th. Gene Sheets' two-bagger, a passed ball and Bud Pritchard's double in the 6th off Graham made it 2-0.

And in the 7th Tony Washington ripped a solo home run over the right field wall for the final Chiefs' tally. It was Tony's 11th homer of the year, tops on the Lincoln club.

In posting his 7th win—and his 2nd in a row after a horrendous run of bad luck—Jackson fanned 7 Hawks and did not walk a man. It was his 1st shutout of the season but his heretofor superlative earned run average took on new lustre.

Al's ERA is now 1.65, tops in the Western League.

The same clubs are slated to meet again Thursday night at Sherman Field, if the tide goes out. Oley Nelson (2-2) is Monty Basgall's choice, while Topeka will pitch Wendell Doss (7-8).

Smoke Signals . . . Threat of rain cut the crowd to 505, the 5th smallest turnout of the season. But those on hand saw a dandy . . . Topeka manager George Quinn can't coach. In fact, he can't even get his shoes on. George tried to break up a fight between a Hawk and Sioux City's Ted Shandor at Topeka the other night and got his toes stepped on . . . Game time was a snappy 1:56, amazing considering the field condition . . . Stan Malec has hit safely in 10 straight games . . . Bud Pritchard has gotten 10 hits in his last 19 trips, boosting his average from .272 to .301 since July 4th.

Unknown Aussie Sets Three-Mile Record

. . . Averages 4:23.6 Per Mile

Dublin (AP)—Albert Thomas of Australia broke the world 3-mile record with a time of 13 minutes, 10.8 seconds, Wednesday night.

The accepted record for the distance is 13:14.2 held by Sandor Iharos of Hungary and set in Budapest in 1955.

Thomas, a comparatively unknown young Australian, averaged 4:23.6 for each mile of the gruelling race.

Thomas was spurred on by his hard challenging and more famous fellow Australian, Merve Lincoln, a sub-4 minute miler.

The race was part of an international track meet in Dublin's Santry Stadium and the crowd howled in frenzy as Thomas raced into world stardom.

Thomas and Lincoln set off a fast pace with Lincoln leading all the way for the 1st mile which was reached in 4:27. Lincoln still led at 2 miles, passed in the very fast time of 8:52, but from then on Thomas took control.

Ron Delany, Ireland's olympic 1,500-meter champion, won an 880-yard race in 1 minute, 48.5 seconds tonight. He bettered the Irish record by 1.2 seconds.

Irishman John Lawlor, a student at Boston University, broke another Irish record with a throw of 203 feet 5½ inches in the hammer event. It was the first time Lawlor had cleared 200 feet in his own country.

Austin Owner Raps Texas Loop Prexy

Dallas (AP)—Allen Russell, owner of the Austin club, criticized Dick Butler, president of the Texas League, for "negative statements." But the league prexy said he didn't intend to "argue in the newspapers" and made no answer.

Russell's ire had come from statements Butler confirmed he made at Baltimore where he had gone to attend the major league All-Star game.

There Butler was quoted as saying the Texas League couldn't operate next year under the present setup and that the major leagues would have to take over the minors. He also suggested alignment of 3 Texas League cities—Houston, Dallas and Fort Worth—with 4 from the Southern Association and 1 from the Sally League to form a Class AAA league.

Butler said Dallas and Houston were destined for higher classification in the immediate future "and the other clubs of the Texas league must be realistic about progress. I think it is 'positive thinking' when one is realistic about advancement."

Russell took issue with the proposal that several of the state's big cities move up from AA to AAA classification. "This is the best high class league in baseball," Russell declared. He added that some realignment was needed but that he thought "the people of Dallas, Fort Worth and Houston can get major league baseball within 2 or 3 years if they work on it."

4,800 Watch Sky Sox Club Dukes, 20-7

Colorado Springs, Colo. (AP)—League-leading Colorado Springs rewarded the largest crowd of the season with its most productive offense Wednesday night, burying Albuquerque 20-7 in a Western League contest.

Silky Has Fever, To Miss Race

Inglewood, Calif., (AP) — Stretch-running Silky Sullivan cropped up with a fever Wednesday and probably will not run in the $100,000 added Westerner for 3-year-olds at Hollywood Park July 19.

Trainer Reggie Cornell disclosed that the handsome California chestnut colt developed a cough 2 days ago.

Cornell said that if all goes well, Silky will go to Chicago later in the summer for stakes races against 3-year-olds.

If the trouble persists, however, Silky Sullivan may be rested until the Santa Anita winter meeting.

Silky won his last race, a 7-furlong affair over mediocre opposition, and did it in surprising style.

Baseball Trick Artist Price Here Saturday

Jackie Price, baseball's premier trick artist, will bring many of his old tricks plus a few new ones to Sherman Field preceding Saturday's Western League contest between the Lincoln Chiefs and Topeka's improved Hawks.

The veteran acrobat and trick artist, always a top attraction in Lincoln, makes his annual visit with the performance set at 8 o'clock. Game time Saturday will be 8:30 and it will be the Chiefs last home tilt until July 29.

Price has developed many incredabl feats including a series of catches while standing on his head, batting while hanging from his heels, upside-down throws and a series called "Twenty Ways How Not to Hit a Baseball."

The former infielder, who has been on the tour of major and minor loop parks for over 10 seasons, catches flies while driving a jeep, tosses baseballs out of the park with a sling-shot and a bazooka gun and throws two baseballs in the air and with one swing of the bat, drives one forward to a waiting fielder and one behind him to a receiver.

One of the most widely known performers in the history of baseball, Price has thrilled millions with his antics and new ideas. Price's act was witnessed by over 3,500 at Shermantown last June. Saturday's audience should be the season's high.

Elks Game Reset

Wednesday night's scheduled Elks League game between Bonebright and Globe was reset for Friday night following the Lincoln Optimist-Columbus legion game at Elks Field.

The Optimists game will start at 6 p.m., with the Elks tilt to follow at 8 p.m.

Omaha Gets Muffett, Cards Buy Stobbs

St. Louis (AP) — Billy Muffett, last year's relief hero for the St. Louis Cardinals, is headed for the minor leagues.

Muffett was optioned Wednesday to Omaha of the American Assn. on a 24-hour recall basis.

At the same time the Cards recalled Bob Mabe from Omaha and bought Chuck Stobbs from the Washington Senators.

Muffett dropped far from the hero role this year as a reliever. Last year he had a 2.25 earned run average which leaped to 6.08 in 21 games and 34 innings this year.

At Omaha, Mabe started 8 games, finished 5. He won 6 and lost 1 and has an ERA of 2.09.

A Washington spokesman said Stobbs' sale was made on waivers—in which event the sales price normally is $20,000. The specific sale price, however, was not disclosed. There were no trades involved.

Nats Nix Move To Minneapolis, Will Discuss Transfer No More

Washington (AP)—The Board of Directors of the Washington baseball club voted Wednesday against shifting the team to Minneapolis or anywhere else.

Only 2 days ago Senators' President Calvin Griffith had talked with his fellow American League club owners about making a move.

Wednesday, he himself announced that the board has now adopted a resolution saying none of its officers or directors "shall hereafter engage in any negotiations or discuss any offers, either oral or written, regarding a transfer."

The Griffith statement was distributed by Earl J. Hilligan, head of the American League Service Bureau.

Griffith's fellow club owners had already made it plain they were against any move out of Washington at this time. Some considered the timing was bad, with Congress now considering legislation affecting baseball. They also pointed to the prestige angles of having a club in the nation's capital; the Senators have been here 58 years.

The legislation under study would put baseball under the antitrust laws for the first time but also spell out for it, along with other pro sports, broad exemptions. The disclosure that Griffith was exploring the possibility of a move had stirred up lawmakers who want to keep the team in Washington and suggested the proposed exemptions might be tightened.

Baseball owners have sought as much freedom to operate as Congress will give them.

Griffith recalled that last October the ball club's directors voted against transferring the franchise to another city which "was very anxious to obtain it and had made an attractive offer from a business standpoint."

ALBION DOCTOR LOSES LICENSE

Earlier, Attorney General Clarence S. Beck filed a license revocation complaint against Dr. McShane, charging him with being "addicted to habitual intoxication."

'BENEVOLENCE' CAN LEAD TO METER FINE

A Lincoln resident found one reason why people charged with parking meter violations swear they put enough money in the meter.

John D. Heckman, 429 B, said he left his car parked on 12th St. south of O, that there was 20 minutes left on the meter. When he returned the meter showed 30 minutes left to go.

Heckman said he believed the extra time was not due to a benevolent contributor but to the person with a car in the next stall—whose meter registered zero.

N.D. Unicam Petition Drive Fails

Bismarck, N.D. (AP) — The period for getting a one house legislature proposal before the voters of North Dakota has closed without the filing of such a petition.

Ed Hoyt Named Advisor To Soil, Water Committee

State Director of Agriculture Ed Hoyt was named by Gov. Victor Anderson as an advisor to the State Soil and Water Conservation Committee.

Provisions of the bill creating the committee, passed in the last session of the Legislature, authorized the governor to name an advisor to the committee.

The bill also provided that the U.S. Secretary of Agriculture could appoint an advisor to the committee, and Secretary Ezra Benson has appointed H. G. Bobst, state conservationist, to that position.

The next meeting of the committee is scheduled for July 25.

McElroy, Twining Warn Cut In Aid Dangerous

Washington (AP) — Secretary of Defense Neil McElroy and Gen. Nathan F. Twining deplored a House cut in foreign military aid as dangerous and possibly disastrous.

The 2 defense chiefs—Twining is chairman of the joint chiefs of staff—pleaded with the Senate Appropriations Committee to restore the money in a pending appropriations bill.

The House cut military aid 90 million dollars below the $1,605,000,000 authorized in a previous bill setting foreign aid ceilings. President Eisenhower originally asked $1,800,000,000.

McElroy gave the Senate committee a statement saying $1,605,000,000 was the least that could assure the country against surprise attack. He said a 90-million-dollar cut could be disastrous to our world defenses.

Twining, in a separate statement, said the program was an austere one even before the House cut, which he described as "a patently dangerous and unacceptable risk."

"Our plans and force objectives are apt to be reduced to mere scraps of paper," Twining said, if congress "fails to provide the money to carry them out."

If the United States does not help its allies, the general continued, they run the risk of Communist domination and "the full burden of the defense of the free world will fall upon us and our people."

McElroy said that without U.S. assistance, Greece, Turkey, Pakistan, Viet Nam, Formosa and Korea, on the rim of the Soviet bloc, would be weakened along with a security system of more than 250 overseas land, sea and air bases.

Howard Anspaugh

Lincoln Pair Finish Third In Air Derby

A Lincolnite and a former Wesleyan University instructor placed third in the 12th annual transcontinental Powder Puff Derby for female pilots.

Mrs. Gertrude Howard of College Station, Tex., former English department member at Wesleyan, piloted the 90-horsepower, single - engine plane in the 2,178-mile air race.

The co-pilot was Mrs. Barbara Anspaugh of 5204 Madison, an employe of the State Health Department.

A ground speed of 119.9 m.p.h. was recorded by the all-metal plane.

Mrs. Francis Bera of Long Beach, Calif., won first place with a ground speed of 177.8 m.p.h. It was the fourth time she has won the event.

Second place went to Mrs. Pauline Glassom and her co-pilot, Miss Mary Ann Smothers, both of Corpus Christi, Tex.

Russian Satellite Might Be Visible Here This Week

Russia's third satellite, the 1958 Delta, may be visible to Lincolnites this week as it passes over the city, according to the Wesleyan University Moonwatch Team.

Although it may be too late, since the satellite can be seen only at twilight, visibility possibilities are at 9:37 p. m. Thursday southeast of Lincoln, 9:43 p. m. Friday overhead or 9:49 p. m. Saturday northwest of Lincoln.

The Moonwatch team also reports that the first American satellite, the 1958 Alpha, passes south of Lincoln once each day; it is too faint to be seen with the naked eye.

Agricultural Vertical Integration Inevitable—Hulbert

By Bill Anderson

Vertical integration—a complex term with far-reaching social and economic agricultural ramifications — may open up new horizons on the nation's agricultural scene, according to a national vocational agricultural leader.

Helim Hulbert, chief of the management services division of the Farmers' Co-operative Service of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture, said Wednesday integration, often referred to as "contract farming," is an "inevitable" result of continuing agricultural trends.

Vertical integration has been defined as putting under single control 2 or more of the various steps from raising food to selling it to the consumer. Decision - making responsibility is transferred to a central management unit in return for a reduction in risk and uncertainty.

Hulbert, speaking at the annual state conference of the Nebraska Vocational Agriculture Assn., in Lincoln, urged farmers to integrate their own production through farm co-operatives.

Farmer-Business

In a simple form, vertical integration consists of a farmer, who has land, machinery and who will furnish labor. A business firm will provide capital under a contractual arrangement. The poultry industry is a striking example of integration in operation, according to Hulbert.

Hulbert predicted agriculture of the future will likely be integrated.

"Vertical integration is a challenge and an opportunity for an enterprising co-operative. They (farmers) must never compromise with principles, but should not hold on to outdated ideas," he commented.

He said integration could provide:

—Greater savings to farmers and processors.

—A much broader field of service.

—Increased bargaining power through controlled production, processing and marketing. Distribution would be made according to supply and demand.

Known Market

"A farmer, who is participating in a co-operative form of integration, will have to schedule his product for a known market. The weak, marginal and inefficient farmer will be crowded out of the picture under integration," he commented.

Hulbert's speech climaxed a day-long series of informal discussions on co-operatives. A panel discussion highlighted morning activities. Panel members were: Alf Baker, manager of the Livestock Producers Assn., Omaha; Robert Pueltz, manager of the Equity Union Grain Co. of Lincoln; Willard Grant, manager of the Nebraska-Iowa Non-Stock Milk Producers Assn., Omaha; Bruce McCullough, assistant general manager of the Consumers Co-op Assn.

Gale Anderson, secretary of the Nebraska Co-op Council, also spoke in the afternoon on vertical integration. An evening banquet highlighted activities for the more than 150 instructors and their wives.

Project Method

Thursday morning, Harold Walker, vocational agriculture instructor at Arkansas City, Kan., will discuss the project method of teaching co-operation. Workshop sessions will follow.

A general business session is slated for the afternoon, which will include committee reports and election of officers.

The state association set up the following goals to aid in developing co-operatives during the 1958-59 academic year:

—Increasing the number of departments with an emphasis on the young farmer program.

—Strengthening the summer program.

—Continuing in-service training opportunities for instructors.

—Improving farming programs.

—Increasing charter membership.

—Promoting interest in vocational agricultural education as a career.

—Striving for all chapters to obtain chapter rating.

—Encouraging adequate participation in state fair, district shows and county fairs.

—Encouraging FFA members to try for foundation awards.

—Continuing improvement of local relationship to other agricultural groups.

Workman Electrocuted During Storm

Stromsburg Lineman Victim

Stromsburg, Neb. (AP)—Lester Marsden, 29, an REA lineman from Stromsburg, was electrocuted while working at a sub-station during an electrical storm.

Marsden and Ralph Linkwiler were installing fuses in the Havens community substation. Marsden's family said a storm-caused short circuit was to blame for his death.

Linkwiler tried unsuccessfully to revive Marsden with artificial respiration.

Marsden, a native of Gresham, is survived by his wife, the former Ardith Moore of Ulysses; 4 small children; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Marsden of Gresham; 3 sisters, Mrs. John Mitchell of Lincoln, Mrs. Malcolm Avery of Tryon, Neb., and Mrs. Harold Hartman of North Platte; and 2 brothers, Joe of Stromsburg and Lyle of Gresham.

Funeral arrangements are pending.

North Platte, Neb. (AP)—Farmers around North Platte and central Lincoln County now appear to feel the grasshopper problem has lessened.

A group of farmers told County Agent Neal Baxter they did not feel a community-wide spraying program was needed. Baxter said many of the farmers thought the hoppers had been bad the last week but were moving out.

Four Roses
ANTIQUE
Kentucky Straight Bourbon

Volunteer Fireman
An example of the superb American wood carvings of the 1870's. 15½" high. The craftsmen who made such sculptures are often unknown today. ANTIQUE Bourbon is distilled with the same degree of craftsmanship.

That old-time flavor is back!

Incomparable. Not in this century has there been such a bourbon. ANTIQUE is mellow as time itself. Know why?

You begin with the best—and you end with perfection. You select the finest, richest bourbon whiskey for the barrel. You watch over it day and night. You wait out the years for one golden moment—the moment of maturity.

Then and only then do you take it from the oak, pour it into bottles and label it "ANTIQUE." Incomparable.

STATE SCHOOL FOR RETARDED MAY BRING YOUTHS PUBLIC EDUCATION

The proposed state school for mentally retarded children would be a big influence in determining whether or not mentally retarded children would be educated in Nebraska's public school system, or continue under the Board of Control, Dr. Vernon Hungate state director of special education, has predicted.

Dr. Hungate is chairman of the Board of Control's advisory committee for the school to be located at Cozad.

Hungate said if the school is successful, parents of Nebraska's 1,500 to 2,000 mentally retarded, but "trainable" children, would certainly desire one or both of the following possibilities:

More Board of Control schools for trainable children, and-or acceptance of trainable children into the state's public school system.

No Provisions

Under current law, there are no provisions for educating mentally retarded children in Nebraska's public school system, Hungate said.

However, he said there was a good possibility that the Nebraska State Assn. for Retarded Children would propose legislation in 1959 to establish an educational system for mentally retarded children in Nebraska similar to what exists in Iowa, Kansas, and Missouri.

In those states, Hungate said, the public school districts are permitted to decide if they wish to accept mentally retarded children.

State Bar Assn. Names Nominees

The Executive Council of the Nebraska State Bar Assn. has announced its nominations of officers up for election at the association's annual meeting Oct. 2-3 in Omaha.

The council made the following choices:

Joseph C. Tye, Kearney, president; Clarence E. Haley, Hartington, for member at large of the Executive Council; John J. Wilson, Lincoln, for member of the House of Delegates of the American Bar Assn.

The association also said it would announce sometime in August 8 new members of the Nebraska group's House of Delegates.

The House of Delegates will meet in Omaha Oct. 1.

House Gives Tentative OK For $1.7 Billion To Beef Up Military Bases

Washington (UPI) — The House tentatively approved a bill to authorize a $1,762,000,000 construction program to beef up U.S. military bases at home and abroad.

But final action was put off when Republicans, charging "land grab," sought to knock out a provision to move an Army ammunition depot from Houston, Tex., to Point-Aux-Pins, Ala.

The Army is reluctant to make the move, which involves sale of its present land site for the San Jacinto Ordnance Depot.

The House tentatively approved the shift on a non-record teller of 84 to 82, splitting along party lines. But Republicans forced a delay by insisting on a confirming roll call vote. The members had agreed earlier there would be no roll calls.

'Land Grab'

Republicans denounced the proposed transfer as a land grab by Texas interests anxious to acquire the San Jacinto site. They noted the Army has estimated it would cost 44 million dollars to duplicate the facilities at Point-Aux-Pins.

Rep. Albert Thomas (D-T) defended the forced move recommended by the Armed Services Committee. He estimated the cost would be cut to 2½ million dollars through proceeds from sale of the present site. He said the legislation was necessary to remove from a populous area an "extremely dangerous" depot.

"If it blew up it would make Texas City look like a firecracker," Thomas told the House, referring to the Texas City, Tex., disaster in which 600 persons were killed.

Precedent

But Republicans contended enactment of the legislation would establish a dangerous precedent and expose Congress to demands for similar action from other communities.

To illustrate the point, Rep. Walter H. Judd (R-Minn) offered, but finally withdrew, an amendment to force the government to close the Wold-Chamberlain field at Minneapolis within 18 months. Judd charged that 6 children had been killed in air crashes near the field.

Foiled Pen Escapees Get 18 Months

Two men involved in an escape attempt June 26 at the State Penitentiary were sentenced to 18-month prison terms Wednesday in Lancaster District Court.

Arthur Sass, 17, of Haigler, and Willie James Thigpen, 33, of Omaha, each pleaded guilty before Judge Paul White. He directed the terms to run consecutively with the 5-year robbery term which Sass is serving and the 7-year burglary sentence Thigpen is serving.

The leaders of the escape attempt, Paul Shaw, 25, of Shenandoah, Ia., and Robert Cole, 25, of Omaha, pleaded guilty to attempted escape charges last week and received additional 3-year sentences. The four tied up a guard and reached the prison wall before they were apprehended.

$4,250,000 For Base Here

The military construction authorization bill given tentative approval by the House Wednesday includes $4,250,000 for the Lincoln Air Force Base.

The Lincoln construction is understood to include 8 projects, including hard-surfaced areas at the ends of runways for emergency use, traffic control and lighting equipment, new shops and a crew building, etc.

Tot Whose Heart Stopped Leaving Hospital Soon

Omaha (AP) — Three-year-old Mike Jacobs, the boy whose heart stopped beating after an accident, is expected to leave the hospital shortly.

Hospital authorities expect him to be out less than 3 weeks after his escape from death.

Mike was crushed June 25 when a car rolled backwards pinning the boy against a tree.

He was taken to Immanuel Hospital where his heart stopped beating a short time after he was admitted. A doctor made an incision in Mike's chest and massaged his heart until it started again.

He had suffered concussion and a ruptured lung in the mishap.

The boy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. V. E. Jacobs.

Chennault Better

New Orleans (AP)—Maj. Gen. Claire Chennault, leader of the Flying Tigers during World War II, continued his improved condition following last weekend's severe respiratory difficulties.

The 67-year-old former Louisiana school teacher who led volunteer pilots against the Japanese air attack in China has been undergoing treatment for lung cancer for the past several months in Ochsner Foundation Hospital.

Public Health Officials To Review Hospital Projects

. . . Proposed For Federal Aid

Two regional U.S. Public Health Service officials will be in Lincoln the week of July 22 to review plans for proposed Hill-Burton hospital projects in Nebraska and their approval will pave the way for September bids on projects at Sidney and Fremont.

Verne Pangborn, hospital division chief of the State Health Department, said hearings have been scheduled in his office from the morning of July 22 through noon, July 25 on 6 projects including proposed construction at Bryan Memorial Hospital in Lincoln.

Officers from the Kansas City regional PHS office who will study the plans are Robert Jackson, regional PHS architect, and Philip Dreifuss, regional PHS mechanical engineer.

While Congress has not yet taken final action on Hill-Burton appropriations for the 1958-59 fiscal year, Pangborn said Wednesday there are indications Nebraska's share for general hospital construction purposes will be $1,373,119, compared with $967,341 received last year.

Projects Set

Projects to be heard July 22 include: preliminary plans on the Rock County Hospital at Bassett; final plans on last year's approved $300,000 chronic disease addition at Cheyenne Memorial Hospital at Sidney, and preliminary plans of the Kimball Hospital addition.

July 23: Preliminary plans on Cozad's nursing home addition, and final plans on the $1,200,000 geriatrics unit at Dodge County Hospital at Fremont.

July 24: Continue Dodge County Hospital project, and review preliminary plans on Bryan Memorial Hospital's proposed 5-story addition, modernization of existing facilities and new school or nursing.

July 25: Continuation of Bryan project, and if time permits, a visit to the new Johnson County Hospital at Tecumseh.

Elvis Pays Fine, Army To Put Him In Drivers' Class

Fort Worth, Tex. (AP) — Private Elvis Presley settled up with the law Wednesday. Still, the lover of long, high-powered automobiles will end up in drivers' school.

Kenneth Moore of Fort Worth, an associate of the rock 'n' roll singer now in the Army, paid Presley's $20.50 traffic fine. Presley was arrested by a state policeman Sunday for driving 75 m.p.h. in a 55-mile zone.

But a spokesman at Ft. Hood, where Elvis is training, said he will have to attend a class to study the proper operation of and courtesy with automobiles. The requirement is routine for all Army personnel when their post is notified of a traffic violation.

Moore said he offered in a telephone conversation with Elvis to pay the fine.

Child Treated For Rabid Squirrel Bite

Leonard George, 7, of 4603 Bancroft, who was bitten by a rabid ground squirrel, is undergoing a series of preventive injections for rabies, according to Dr. Fred Underwood, city-county health director.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Neville George, Leonard was bitten as he tried to free the squirrel from his dog who had caught the animal. The brain of the dead squirrel was sent to the State Health Department's laboratory where examination proved it rabid.

The dog which was also bitten by the squirrel, under the recommendation of Dr. Underwood, was destroyed Wednesday afternoon.

According to Dr. Underwood, this is the first animal rabies case in Lancaster County this year.

McCook, Hastings Areas Urgently Need Combines

The state labor department said Wednesday 150 combines are urgently needed at McCook, and 30 at Hastings.

Harvest in the Holdrege area should soon be in full swing and full scale cutting is expected in the North Platte area Thursday.

All local offices reported a surplus or an adequate supply of tractor operators, truck drivers and combine operators, the department said, adding that there has been no demand for unattached demand for unattached trucks.

Reports from individual offices included:

Alliance—(Includes Box Butte, Dawes, Grant, Hooker, Sheridan, Thomas, west half of Cherry and north half of Sioux Counties) harvest expected to start between July 17-20.

Grand Island—(Includes Hall, Hamilton, Sherman, Howard, Merrick, Nance, Valley, Greeley, Wheeler, Loup, Garfield, Custer, and Blaine Counties) rain each day for the past 4 days and heavy dews each night holding up harvest operations. No shortage of combines or men.

Hastings — (Includes Adams, Clay, Fillmore, Franklin, Nuckolls, Webster and York Counties) 30 combines needed as follows: Trumbull, 2; Hastings, 6; Red Cloud, 2; Edgar, 6; Clay Center, 7, Hildreth, 2; Franklin, 5. Harvest in full swing over entire area. Surplus of harvest labor and trucks. Some shattering reported.

Kearney —(Includes Buffalo, Dawson, Harlan, Kearney and Phelps Counties) high moisture content and green wheat will delay cutting. Harvest just getting started; only test runs so far. Machines moving in have been placed and are standing by. Need 10 combines for small acreages. No demand for harvest hands or trucks.

McCook — (Includes Chase, Dundy, Frontier, Furnas, Gosper, Hayes, Hitchcock and Red Willow Counties) 150 combines needed for immediate cutting. Machines urgently needed at Benkleman, Imperial and McCook. Only a few machines moving in through port of entry at McCook. Cutting full scale over area except northern part. Estimate 10% complete. Weather report favorable for 3 or 4 days of good harvest weather. Surplus of harvest help and trucks.

North Platte—(Includes Arthur, Keith, Logan, Lincoln, McPherson and Perkins Counties) with sunshine and drying weather, full scale cutting expected Thursday. Entire area should be ready for harvest at same time, which should create widespread demand for machines. Some spotted cutting on sandy soil near Grant Wednesday. Small supply of combines and harvest hands standing by.

Scottsbluff — (Includes Scotts Bluff, Morrill, Garden and south half of Sioux Counties). Harvest expected July 15-20.

Sidney — (Includes Banner, Cheyenne, Deuel and Kimball Counties). Advance orders for machines and men for around July 15. A few farmers may be cutting before that time.

Electricians Back To Work With 15 Cent Increase

Lincoln electricians were back on their jobs Wednesday as contraact negotiations with the Lincoln Electrical Contractors Assn. awarded them a 15 cent an hour pay boost for 1958, to be followed by another identical hike next year.

Local 265 of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers struck July 1 and tied up electrical work on all major construction jobs for 8 days.

The 2-year contract also awarded electricians zone pay for out-of-town jobs, based on distance from 7 sub-units throughout the state.

Hell's Canyon Defeat Blamed On Nebraskans

Odell, Neb. — Democratic Candidate for Congress Clair Callan has charged that the failure to build the Hell's Canyon high dam could cost Nebraska farmers $750,000 per year.

And Callan charges that his opponent, incumbent Rep. Phil Weaver of Falls City, and Rep. A. L. Miller of Kimball were key to killing federal construction of the project.

Callan said Hell's Canyon power at 2.5 to 3 mills per kilowatt hour could have made available from Pacific Northwest "triple super phosphate" fertilizer at a savings of $6.75 per ton.

In 1955, said Callan, this would have saved Nebraskans $377,833, and with current increases in use of fertilizer the figure is expected to double to the $750,000 figure by 1960.

Douglas Co. Valuation Up $23 Million

Omaha (AP) — Douglas County Assessor Joe C. Stolinski said preliminary totals Wednesday showed Douglas County with $23,887,742 more assessed valuation than a year ago.

The total included real estate, personal property, corporations and automobiles.

At the county's current $4.90 tax per $1,000 of assessed value, this would produce $117,050 more revenue than the same levy last year.

For Nebraska, the increase in assessed value would have $196,597 more from tanglible property in the county.

For the city of Omaha a $16,733,184 hike in assessed value would provide $299,534 more in taxes than the same levy produced last year.

Stolinski figured the increases by comparing last year's totals prior to action by the county board of equalization. This year's totals have not yet been acted upon by the board.

"Actual value" means a 100% value. "Assessed value" against which tax is applied is 35% of actual value.

Hastings Tribune Wins NEA Special Edition Contest

Detroit (AP) — The National Editorial Assn. Wednesday night announced the Hastings, Neb., Tribune was first place winner in the association's annual special edition contest for newspapers with over 2,000 circulation.

The Ord, Neb., Quiz was second in the service to agriculture contest for newspapers with over 2,000 circulation. The Grinnell, Iowa, Herald-Register was first.

Falls City Tax Rate Reduced

Falls City, Neb. (AP) — The municipal government has announced that the tax rate for the coming year will be reduced by half a mill.

The city's budget is $203,275, against $225,900 for the current fiscal year.

However, the local school board has approved a budget of $324,160, about $13,000 above last year's figure. It is expected that the mill levy will be about 35 mills.

North Platte Group Formed To Seek NU Extension Center

North Platte, Neb. (AP)—A local committee has been formed to offer local aid in pressing for legislation to make a University of Nebraska Extension Center here possible.

The extension center idea—a grouping of off-campus courses which would make possible completion of college in 2 years originally was discussed by University officials early this year.

But an attorney general's opinion said such a plan was not provided for in Nebraska law. The opinion also appeared to cast doubt on the validity of the individual off-campus courses that have operated for many years in several Nebraska communities including North Platte. The attorney general subsequently held that they, too, were illegal.

The North Platte Committee was formed with the assumption that the university will press for enabling legislation in the next session of the Unicameral.

The School Board named a committee of 7 including 3 members of the board to offer aid in the drive for this legislation.

Autopsy Slated In Nedinmovich Death

Omaha (AP) — Acting Douglas County Coroner George Sullivan said Wednesday an autopsy would be performed to determine if the death of an elderly man earlier in the day would be added to traffic death rolls.

Eli Nedinmovich, 74, of Omaha was injured in an auto-pedestrian mishap at a downtown Omaha intersection a week ago.

Ford Dividend Slash Shocks Wall Street

New York (AP) — A dividend slash by Ford Motor Co. shocked Wall Street Wednesday and a previously higher stock market tumbled to a loss.

The decline was moderate and irregular on average although Ford and some other issues were clipped for sharp losses. Trading was moderately active.

News that Ford had cut its dividend to 40 cents from 60 cents came in mid-afternoon. Almost simultaneously with news of the dividend cut, Ford stock sold at 42¾, a new peak for this year, and up ⅜ from the previous close.

Ford was immediately barraged with selling which drove it down to 39½, a loss of 2⅞ on the day.

Other prices deteriorated along with Ford but there was no tremendous rush to unload. Tobaccos were nicely ahead early in the day and remained on the plus side by narrower margins. Some building materials, motion picture and selected issues kept gains. But motors, steels, oils, rubbers, aircrafts, electronics and most chemicals were generally lower.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped 70 cents to $174.60 with the industrials down $1.40, the rails down 60 cents and the utilities unchanged.

Of 1,175 issues traded, 579 declined and 349 rose. New highs for the year totaled 53 and there were 4 new lows.

Eight of the 15 most active stocks rose and 7 fell.

Volume was 2,630,000 shares compared with 2,430,000 Tuesday.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregularly lower on volume of 780,000 shares compared with 840,000 Tuesday.

Major Grain Prices Lower

Chicago (AP) — Traders said they could see little or no reason to do more than the minimum business in futures contracts Wednesday and prices of the major grains were mostly lower.

Rye was the exception with gains running well over a cent a bushel in all contracts which more than recovered the setbacks of Tuesday when dealers took their cue from the Winnipeg market and dumped liberal offerings into the pit.

A good deal of Wednesday's demand was to reinstate those positions since overnight reports served to confirm earlier advices that the outlook for the crop in Western Canada still is poor.

Activity in wheat continued limited in the absence of hedging and substantial commercial demand.

Wheat closed ⅛ cent a bushel higher to ¼ lower, July $1.82; corn ⅜-1⅜ lower, July $1.29⅞-30; oats ¼ higher to ¼ lower, July 64; rye 1¼-1⅜ higher, July $1.26; soybeans ¼ lower to ⅜ higher, July $2.24¼-⅛; lard 2 to 15 cents a hundred pounds higher, July $12.52.

Pressure has been on corn almost steadily for the past several days, since the pickup in producer selling and the increase in commercial supplies at some major terminals.

Some of the scattered soybean demand was related to higher prices of soybean meal.

Senate Unit Favors 3-Year Trade Law Extension

Washington (AP) — The Senate Finance Committee lined up 10-5 Wednesday in favor of a 3-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade law. President Eisenhower has asked for five years and the House has so voted.

There was a 7-5 vote in the committee for 3 years and 3 absentees said later they would vote for 3 years. The committee has 15 members.

The reciprocal trade program, which was begun 24 years ago, has never been extended for more than 3 years at a time. Eisenhower asked for 5 years on the grounds that this much time would be needed to conduct trade negotiations with the European common market now being formed.

Authorized

Under the program, the President is authorized to negotiate tariff cuts, on a tit for tat basis, with other nations.

It was learned that the 7 committee members who voted for a 3-year extension were Sens. Edward Martin (R-Pa), John J. Williams (R-Del), Ralph E. Flanders (R-Vt), George W. Malone (R-Nev), William E. Jenner (R-Ind), Robert S. Kerr (D-Okla) and Russell B. Long (D-La).

Absentees favoring 3 years were Sens. Clinton P. Anderson (D-NM), George A. Smathers (D-Fla) and J. Allen Frear (D-Del).

The 5 who supported 5 years were Sens. Harry F. Byrd (D-Va), Paul H. Douglas (D-Ill), Albert Gore (D-Tenn), Frank Carlson (R-Kan) and Wallace F. Bennett (R-Utah).

Commute Omahan's Robbery Sentence; Rape Term Begins

A 31-year-old Omaha man, Frederick Mason, who had served nearly 8 years of a 25-year sentence for robbery, was granted commutation of that sentence Wednesday by the State Board of Pardons in order that he could start serving a 7-year term for rape at the Nebraska Penitentiary.

Mason's case was one of 11 acted upon at the Board's July hearing at the Penitentiary.

The Board granted one full pardon, 5 paroles, 2 commutations, deferred one parole for one year, deferred action on another case until September, and granted parole to an inmate of the Women's Reformatory at York.

Mason was one of a trio convicted of beating and robbing 2 soldiers at a park in Omaha in the fall of 1950. The trio also had taken 2 women companions of the soldiers from the park and later raped them.

'Heat Of Battle'

Omaha attorney Clayton Shrout appeared as counsel for Mason and asked the commutation on the grounds that the 25-year sentence had been imposed "in the heat of battle" a few days after the crimes were committed, and said he believed the sentence was "excessive."

The Board also commuted 32-year-old Joseph J. Strokusz of Jersey City, N.J. to a detainer in New Jersey. The Board said if the New Jersey detainer is not still active, though they believe it is, they will further consider Strokusz' case in 30 days.

Other action:

Hester Coleman, 32, Omaha, larceny from person, Douglas County, 1957, 4 years, paroled from Women's Reformatory.

Robert Sall, 31, Gothenburg, mayhem, Dawson County, 1953, 3 years, paroled 1954, pardoned.

Francis D. Taylor, 28, Roseville, O., bigamy, Cheyenne County, 1956, 6 years. Will parole in July of next year. Escape record prevents parole now.

Francis L. Page, 24, Omaha, burglary, 1956, Douglas County, 3 years, paroled.

L. J. Homer Felts, 43, Mayfield, Ky., forgery and violation of bench parole, Kimball County, 1957, one to 3 years, paroled.

Veryl R. Haswell, 33, Cozad, uttering forged instrument, 1955, 7 years, Lincoln County, deferred until September hearing.

Harold G. Carfield, 23, McCook, robbery, 1956, Lincoln County, paroled.

Richard S. Coleman, 36, North Platte, robbery, 1956, 3 to 5 years, Lincoln County, paroled.

James Beach, 30, San Lorenzo, Calif., no account check, Scotts Bluff County, 1957, 2 years, paroled.

Striking Bus Drivers Union Meets Today

A union meeting of the American division of Continental Bus System drivers, now on strike, has been called for Thursday, according to local union members.

The union, Amalgamated Assn. of Electric Railway and Motor Coach Employes, reportedly will meet to discuss the drivers' request for a 9 cent a mile wage.

Negotiations between the drivers, who have been receiving 7 cents per mile, and the company broke off 10 days ago.

The American division strike has affected Continental Bus service from Lincoln to such points as Grand Island, Hastings and Omaha.

About 160 bus drivers of the Western Division of Continental walked off the job Wednesday. However, Lincoln will not be affected by their strike.

Involved are drivers working out of Los Angeles, San Francisco, Flagstaff, Ariz., and Albuquerque, N.M.

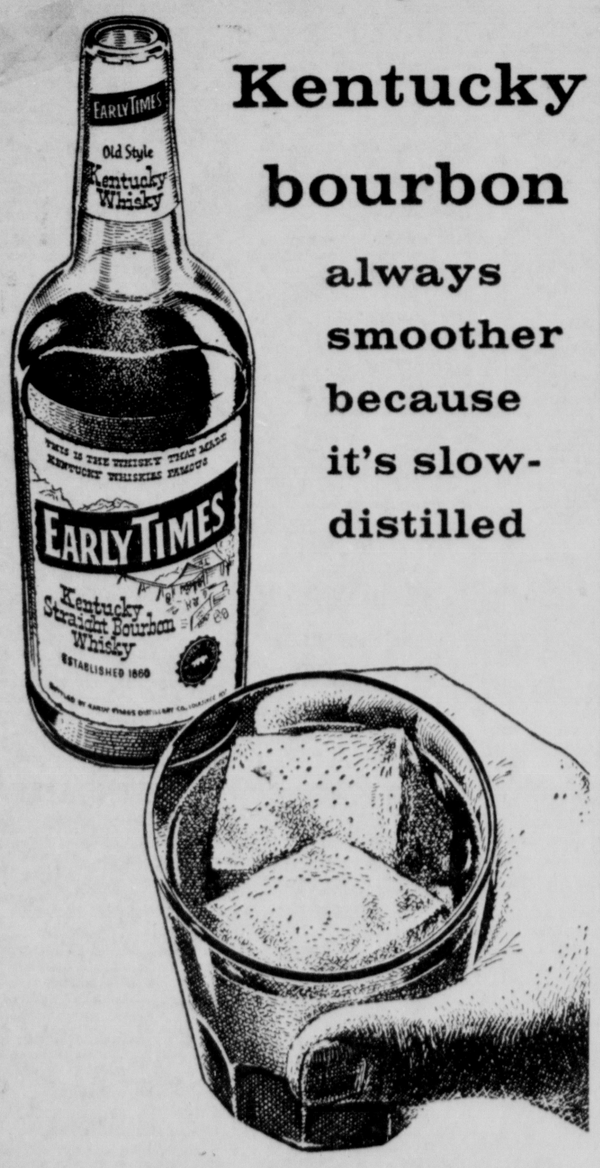
The true old-style Kentucky bourbon always smoother because it's slow-distilled



There are less expensive ways to make bourbon—but they'll never give you the smoothness of Early Times. Slow distilling is the patient, old-style way, the smoothing way to make whisky. Next time, ask for Early Times.
